Martinez, or "Marty" as he was known to his family, always had a quick smile and made friends wherever he traveled. Martinez, on more than one occasion, mentioned how he rode with the great Willie Shoemaker.

"Shoemaker was called 'the shoe' and I was called 'the moccasin,'" Heath chuckled.

In the mid 1990's, when the tribe was getting ready to open a casino at Kah-Nee-Ta, Marty applied for a job.

The General Manager told him she couldn't hire him without a GED.

The next day Martinez was back with his GED. The General Manager was stunned.

Martinez had passed his GED test with one of the highest scores ever achieved

Martinez Heath

at Warm Springs.

His smile at the graduation ceremony told those who watched that his victory was as big as any he had experienced in his illustrious jockey career.

Martinez Heath was one of nine children born to Nathan and Lilly Heath.

Martinez is survived by two daughters, Mariah Martina Heath and Tiffany Rose Heath, and three grandchildren, all of California. Other survivors include brothers, Warm Springs Chief Delvis Heath, Sanders and Benson Heath, and sister Nola Queahpama: all of Warm Springs.

He was preceded in death by his parents, two brothers and two sisters.

Bel Air Funeral Home in Madras is in charge of the arrangements.
