Students at Jefferson County Middle School had a chance to hear what its like to serve in the armed forces from men who experienced it first hand at the annual Veteran's Day assembly recently.

Rob Moran, Jack Goodman, George Boise, Robert Ruiz and Keith Baker spoke to students about their time in the armed forces.

Moran spoke of his time as a young man working on an aircraft during the late 1950s.

The armed forces taught him about pride and trust, among many other things, Moran said.

In Goodman's opinion, serving in the military helped him learn more about life.

Goodman told the students, "I did get a lot out of the military. It kind of expanded my horizons and helped me get a lot more out of life."

Boise spoke to the students about his time in the army and recent deployment to Iraq, while Ruiz told the students of his training and future deployment to Iraq.

Baker, a disabled veteran of the Vietnam War, spoke of his time in the army.

After the speakers addressed the students, JROTC members and a marching band led a parade of JCMS students near the school.

The JCMS assembly was one of many celebrations of Veteran's Day. In Warm Springs, veterans hosted a ceremony and parade on Veteran's Day, Nov. 12, in front of the courthouse.
