

Some Wishes for Valentines Day

Happy Valentines Day to my wonderful daughter, Cassandra Marie Heath. You are that true unconditional love that I always longed for.

I was only 18 at the time I first heard of you and didn't know what to do. I actually had no clue. But as I finally decided I counted down the days for labor. As time went by and you grew inside of me I just knew that you were going to be special. Now it's time for my little angel to see the world. Now it's time for me to be a mom. I cried and cried tears of joy to be a mom to a blessing. My heart never had so much love for someone that I knew nothing about. Your growing and understanding if mommy is doing right or wrong. I wish I could erase hurtful times. Just never forget that things sometimes may get harder And that mommy will always be there. We may have our time of arguments and disagreements. But in the end we will work through it. Just remember that not only can I be your mom I can also your best friend in the end. Don't get worried that you'll never have anyone to talk to because right next to you is where I always will be, holding my arms out, waiting for my little angel to come into my arms. I love you more then words can express. I never thought that in a million years I could be a mother. I enjoy every moment of you in my life. You are the colors to the rainbow The light to the moon The twinkle to the star and the smile to my face. I love you with all my heart. Happy Valentines Day, mommy's little girl! Love Your Mother, Ikie Marie Heath.

Happy Valentine to Sonny Yahtin, with thanks for "loving me without fear, trusting me without questioning, needing me without demanding of me, wanting me without restrictions, and accepting me without any change and the desire you have for me without inhibitions." I miss you and hope to see you sometime soon! Love, Ikie Marie Heath.
