

Indian Head Dedication Day

Employees wait inside, and the guests outside, as the ribbon is readied for the ceremonial cutting.

Adam Haas photo.

The Kah-Nee-Ta shuttles, this one driven by Angie Smith, were busy on opening day.

The casino parking lot was filled on Super Bowl Sunday.

The casino is helping businesses at the Plaza, which have struggled in the past to draw visitors. Most recently, Brigette Whipple opened a new shop at the Plaza. Her business, Salmon King, features salmon for sale, beadwork and Native American clothes.

Because of the cold, a tent with heaters was set up for guests to hear the dedication day comments.

Congressman Greg Walden was on hand for the opening, with Councilmen Buck Smith, Chairman, and Ron Suppah, Vice-Chair.

Rodney Guerin, having lunch one afternoon this week at the Cottonwood Restaurant.

At the Cedar Basket Gift Shop, Tiyanna Tuckta.

New sign along Highway 26.

Spilyay photos.