Edible puff paint, oil emulsification, making butter, drinking 'smoking yoda' soda, and soda explosions were some of the experiments conducted during OSU Extension's Kitchen Science Camp.

Participants donned their aprons in the kitchen lab at the Education Building to learn about why oil and water are not friends, what gives soda pop its fizz, and how candy can cause a geyser.

For more information on upcoming classes and camps through OSU Extension, call 541-553-3238.
