

Justice grant for violence prevention

The Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs received a grant of $336,192 for its Violence Against Women Tribal Governments Program.

The grant is one of eight made to Oregon tribes by the Department of Justice.

Nationwide, the department announced more than 200 grants to more than 110 American Indian and Alaska Native nations.

The grants will provide more than $101 million to enhance law enforcement practices, and sustain crime prevention and intervention efforts in a number of purpose areas.

The areas include: public safety and community policing; justice systems planning; alcohol and substance abuse; corrections and correctional alternatives; violence against women; elder abuse; juvenile justice; and tribal youth programs.

Along with the grant to Warm Springs, other Oregon tribal grants were as follows:

Burns Paiute Tribe: $809,459 for Training and Equipment for Law Enforcement

Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians: $306,717 for its Enhancement of the Peace Giving Court. And $74,884 for its Integrated Community Health and Safety Planning Process.

Confederated Tribes of the Grand Ronde Community of Oregon: $256,279 got hiring; and $121,824 for training and equipment.

Coquille Indian Tribe: $197,880 for equipment and training.

Klamath Tribes of Oregon: $498,665 for the Klamath Tribes Juvenile Justice Enhancement Project; and $449,945 for Klamath Tribes Enhancement of Services for Victims of Crime Project.

Hiring bough cutters

Jaime Smith is hiring bough cutters to work for about one month, from approximately Oct. 15-Nov. 15.

Smith said he is looking to hire tribal members who are dependable, hard working, and willing to put in long days out in the woods above 5,000 feet. Pay will be $0.10 per pound of noble fir boughs. Cutters and rope will be supplied, your own transportation is preferred. Contact Smith at 541-553-1198 or 541-460-0170. The best time to reach him is in the early evenings.

There will be a blood drive at the clinic from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 10

(last appointment taken at 2:45 p.m.). Call Nancy or Dayle at 541-553-4943.

Water causes slight delay

Dave McMechan/Spilyay

The crew working on the Hollywood-Tenino repaving project last week encountered a spring beneath the roadway. They built a system that will direct the water toward Shitike Creek. Both lanes of Hollywood were closed for a day. Otherwise, the project is on schedule for completion around the end of the month.

Ed Manion, 1933-2012

Ed Manion was born in Lander, Wyoming on November 22, 1933 to John and Mabel (Williams) Manion. Ed passed away on September 17, 2012 at the family home in Tenino Valley, in Warm Springs with his loving wife, Urbana and children by his side.

Ed grew up in the Madras area and attended Madras Union High School.

Ed married Urbana Brunoe of Warm Springs, on September 21, 1956

At the age of 20, he purchased The Rainbow Market outside of Warm Springs. He ran the store until he left for military service. Ed served in the Army from 1956-1958.

In 1961 the Warm Springs Tribe purchased Kah-Nee-Ta Hot Springs and Ed was hired by the tribe as the first Kah-Nee-Ta Resort manager. This was the beginning of Ed's professional career of more than 50 years working for the Warm Springs Tribe and the Warm Springs people.

He held many positions with the tribe. In addition to being Kah-Nee-Ta's first general manager, he served as Public Utilities general manager, and was the Construction manager on major building projects in Warm Springs.

Ed continued to work actively on projects for the tribe, including the Gorge Casino project, until recent months when illness forced him to retire.

Ed always believed that he was blessed to be part of the Warm Springs community, and to have the opportunity to contribute to the development of the community, where he lived. He respected the Warm Springs community and was grateful for the opportunity to be involved in constructing and managing projects such as the Kah-Nee-Ta lodge and Village redevelopment, the Warm Springs Museum, the Warm Springs domestic water system, the Health and Wellness Center and many others.

Ed was also appointed by the Warm Springs Tribal Council to serve on the Board of Directors of Kah-Nee-Ta Resort. Ed also served on other various boards both on and off the reservation.

Aside from his dedication to serving the Warm Springs community, Ed was devoted to and was always busy with his family.

He enjoyed working with his hands and farming and ranching were some of his favorite hobbies. He was an avid craftsman and enjoyed building furniture for the family.

All the children and grandchildren have something that he has made in their homes, from hope chests to china hutches. His last big project was making deck chairs for the patios of his family.

Ed is survived by his wife Urbana and their six children: Eddie Manion of Warm Springs, Kim Pittsley (Eric) Keizer, Jim Manion (Donna) and Doug Manion (Kim), both of Madras, Lynn Thomas (Randy) of Bend and Jenny Frye (Wayne) of Bellingham, Wash. He is survived by 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

He is also survived by two brothers, Bob and Gordon Manion, and a sister, Mabel Williams.

He was preceded in death by his parents and 3 brothers.

Walking a Mile in Their Shoes

This year, our JCSD team is working to build a stronger culture of empathy and compassion among teachers, staff and students. You may notice some of us wearing district shoe laces as a reminder to "walk a mile in each other's shoes." In addition to teacher/staff training, we are launching an empathy program for middle and high school students called Challenge Day.

Challenge Day is a powerful, nationally-recognized program that brings students together with adult facilitators in a safe environment to have heartfelt conversations about cliques, gossip, rumors, negative judgments, teasing, harassment, isolation, stereotypes, intolerance, racism, sexism, bullying, violence, homophobia, hopelessness, apathy and more. Those who attended the first challenge day program had great things to say.

"I had the honor of participating in Challenge Day with Madras High School students last week and it changed my life. Over 100 high school students of all ages and 25 adults, exploring the importance of acceptance and respecting one another was emotional, powerful and a whole lot of fun."

— Courtney Snead, Challenge Day volunteer and Madras community member.

If you would like more information about Challenge Day or are interested in participating as a volunteer, call (541) 475-6192.
