Committee sets fishing regulations

The Warm Springs Fish and Wildlife Committee, under the authorization of Tribal Council, has set the following fisheries:

Sherars Falls Spring Chinook

Due to the low predicted return of spring chinook, special rules have been adopted to protect wild salmon while still allowing fishing for hatchery salmon.

Fishing is open at Sherars Falls until May 25 for hatchery salmon and steelhead.

From May 26-July 15 fishing will be open seven days per week for hatchery fish. After July 15 all fish, with the exception of sockeye and unmarked steelhead, may be retained.

Fishing is allowed from scaffolds or by hook and line. Scaffolds must be attended continuously and nets and hoops must be attached to a pole. Fishermen may use one pole containing up to two single hooks. This is a subsistence fishery, no sales are allowed. Fish must be made available to Branch of Natural Resources staff for monitoring and enforcement.

For the remainder of the Deschutes River, open to July 15 for hatchery chinook and steelhead. Other salmon species may be retained except for sockeye.

Hood River Spring Fisheries

Hood River is open through July 15 for spring chinook salmon with the exception of the following areas that are closed year round:

- One hundred feet up or downstream from the Dec Mill fish trap in the East Fork of Hood River

- In the entire West Fork of Hood River upstream of Green Point Creek and,

-In the entire length of Rogers Creek, a tributary of the Middle Fork of Hood River.

Only marked hatchery chinook may be retained. Other salmon species may be retained during the spring chinook season. Hatchery steelhead may be retained but wild steelhead must be released.

If 175 Hood River origin adults have not passed Bonneville by May 5, an emergency closure may be implemented by the Fish and Wildlife Committee in consultation with the Branch of Natural Resources.

John Day Spring Fisheries

The John Day River up to the upstream boundary of the Sheep Rock National Monument is open through July 15 for spring chinook salmon. Both marked and unmarked chinook may be retained. Hatchery steelhead may also be retained.

Special Fishery below Bonneville Dam

Due to the predicted low run size spring chinook fishing below Bonneville Dam is on hold until more information can be obtained.
