

Sacred Thunder hoops camp at center

The Sacred Thunder Basketball Camp is coming up this Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 1-2, at the Warm Springs Community.

The camp will be in two groups: fifth- through eighth-graders; and ninth-through twelfth-graders.

Registration for the fifth to eighth grade group starts at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 1. Training for this group goes from 9-11 a.m. on both days.

Registration for the ninth through twelfth graders starts at 10 a.m. on Saturday. Training is from 11:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. both days.

Prevention presentations will be in between group training sessions each day, and participants must attend both presentations.

Hoop Diaries, based in Beaverton, will conduct the camp. Sill trainers for Hoop Diaries are Henry Barrera, DJ Shaw and Kevan West.

Cost is $20 per player. Players must bring their own ball, water bottle and positive attitude. For more information call Shawn Harry at 541-325-1323.

W.S. Cougars Co-ed Basketball Tournament

The Warm Springs Cougars Youth Organization will be hosting the Cougars All Indian Co-ed tournament for youth ages 14 years and Under, and High school and Under (non varsity).

This will be held on November 14-16 at the Warm Springs Community Center Gym.

The touney is open to the first six teams in both categories, with the entry fee set at $150 per team prior to deadline of Noember 7. After Nov. 7 the entry entry increases by $25.00 (three game guarantee).

Awards in both divisions will be championship coats, runner-up sweatshirts, third- and fourth-place finalists t-shirts. Twelve All-tourney squads, and MVP.

Council looking to fill board vacancies

Tribal Council is looking to fill positions on the Credit board of directors, the Power and Water Enterprises board, the Water board, and Ventures economic development board.

There is also a vacancy on the board of the Tribal FishCo, the tribal fish processing company based at White Swan, Wash. Anyone interested in serving on one of these boards should submit a letter of interest and resume of the applicant's interest in serving on the board by November 7.

The application should be submitted to Jake Suppah,

Secretary-Treasurer/CEO, PO Box 455, Warm Springs OR 97761.

An authorization letter will be mailed to all applicants for a criminal and credit background check to be completed and returned to the Secretary-Treasurer's office. Information will be submitted confidentially to the S-T.

There are two positions, one tribal member and one non-member, open on the Warm Springs Power and Water Enterprises board. Power and Water manages the tribal hydro projects on the Deschutes River.

There are two positions open on the Warm Springs Ventures board. Ventures is the economic development enterprise of the Confederated Tribes, overseeing Construction, GeoVisions, the Telecom and some tribal properties; and working on programs such as the unmanned aerial vehicles (UAV) project, and carbon sequestration. The two positions open on the Ventures board call for one member and one non-member.

The Water board has one vacancy. This board reviews and makes recommendations regarding all matters pertaining to the water resource on the reservation.

The Credit board has one vacancy, calling for a tribal member. Credit is the lending enterprise of the Confederated Tribes.

The FishCo board has one vacancy calling for a member of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs.

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission established the Tribal FishCo in 2010 to operate and maintain the fish processing center at White Swan. The Corps of Engineers built the facility as a treaty fishing access site.

Election day on Tuesday

The general midterm election is next Tuesday, November 4.

Ballots must be deposited in an official election drop box by 8 p.m. on election night to be counted.

In the midterm election, voters will choose elected officials—county, state and federal—and decide several state ballot initiatives.

Warm Springs and most of the reservation is Precinct 14 in Jefferson County, and has 1,407 registered voters.

UAVs: measures to ensure privacy

The Warm Springs Telecom could be involved, in the data transfer aspect of the UAV systems.

The tribes are in a position to bring in billion-dollar companies that need to test their UAV systems.

Five sites

The Federal Aviation Administration approved the whole reservation as a UAV test range, but the actual test sites are much more narrowly defined. And the UAVs cannot travel beyond a one-mile radius from the ground site.

There are five sites that are being looked at as potential test sites: On the Metolius Bench, near Kah-Nee-Ta, two sites on Miller Flat, and one at Sidwalter.

The UAVs would not be flying randomly around the reservation. "They have very specific flight patterns," Sampson said. "And there are privacy conditions that they have to comply with."

The companies would come to the tribes for approval to conduct a test flight. The tribal UAV program would put out a notice that the flight is going to happen, and would then have a tribal UAV person present during the test.

The BIA has already show interest in the program, Sampson said, as UAVs are seen as a future tool in fighting wild land fires.

The BPA and other utilities have many miles of lines that require regular inspection, and this is another potential use of the UAVs.

Natural Resources could use the vehicles for wildlife inventories. The number of potential uses for UAVs is large, which is why the field is growing fast.

Other countries are already using the systems more extensively for domestic purposes than the U.S.

The FAA last year approved the test sites to get the U.S. on track for safe use of the UAVs.
