The Madras High School girls water polo team won the Oregon 5A/4A girls state championship final in November. Madras reached the girls final after a 19-8 win over Ashland.

They took the championship with a convincing win over Portland-area power Parkrose. Final score was 15-

5. Warm Springs is well represented on the White Buffalos squad, coached by Doug Calvin, who works at Natural Resources.

Ventures: projects coming up in 2015

The agreement would be with the Oregon Department of Transportation, and companies that contract work with ODOT.

The TERO agreement would apply to road and other public works projects not only on the reservation, but within a 60-mile radius of the reservation boundary. This would include Bend and The Dalles.

"TERO allows tribal businesses and individuals a preference in hiring," Sampson said. "That is a huge opportunity that we are missing."

The Grand Ronde and

Don Sampson

Umatilla have TERO agreements, which can serve as models for the Warm Springs agreement. Sampson helped negotiate the Umatilla TERO agreement.

The plan is to present the Warm Springs TERO proposal to Tribal Council, and then have one in place possibly by next summer.

Ventures is working with tribal Natural Resources on a carbon sequestration strategy. The new year will see important developments in this project as well, Sampson said.

Carbon sequestration would involve managing the tribal forest in a way to market carbon credits to companies in California.
