

Council business

Tribal Council has a full agenda during May, the first month for the new Council.

The Council members spent the first part of the month with orientation and appointments, deciding to advertise the secretary-treasurer position.

Council then spent the first part of this week working on a Proclamation and priorities. These documents will be the guiding policies for the next three years at Council.

The agenda for the middle of this week includes committee discussion, board and voting delegations, enrollments and an introduction to Oregon House representatives. Next week will be enterprise updates with Indian Head Casino, Kah-Nee-Ta, Credit, Power and Water, Ventures and the museum.

Updates are also scheduled with Telecom, Housing, High Lookee, Composite, and Forest Products Industries receivership.

Later in May are meetings with the Legislative Commission on Indian Services; the Affiliated Tribes of Northwest Indians; and the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission.

The Tribal Council Chair and Chief Delvis Heath are specifically invited, with a request from the U.S. Forest Service for Chief Heath to perform a blessing as part of the event.

Recurring problem by landfill

The Utilities Department workers at the Dry Creek Landfill and Transfer Station just spent many days cleaning up an area that is near the landfill-transfer station.

The area had been used for illegal dumping for many months.

The area, an old shooting range, stayed clean for a short time, and then someone recently began leaving garbage there again.

This is especially discouraging, as the landfill-transfer station is located about a third of mile further down the road, said Tony Wergin, recycling technician with the Utilities Department. The transfer station is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week; and the landfill is open 8 to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Utilities is asking members to use the facilities, rather than undesignated areas where dumping is prohibited. And if you see someone who is violating the prohibition, please call the police.

The area is clearly marked with 'no dumping' signs. For information, you can reach the transfer station at 541-553-3163.

Getting ready for powwow

The Pi-Ume-Sha Committee is getting ready for the Forty-Seventh Annual Pi-Ume-Sha Treaty Days. The June powwow will commemorate the 161st anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of 1855.
