

Point-in-Time Count in January

The Confederated Tribes Point-in-Time Count is a calculation of the local population who are experiencing homelessness. The Point-in-Time Count team will host the next session from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, January 29 at the Family Resource Center.

Results of the count help with the allocation of resources. Data from the annual Point-in-Time surveys lead to a baseline count of those in the community who are 'precariously housed.' All are invited to attend the January 29 session.

There will be collection of the data, plus outreach, assistance and distribution of care items.

According to findings of the 2019 Point-in-Time Count, there has been an increase in the number of precariously housed among tribal members over the past three years.

The Point-in-Time Count team work with the tribal Health and Human Services Branch, with other volunteers.

Regarding the people who are asked to participate in the upcoming Count:

'Homeless' does not necessarily mean the person is without shelter. If a person is without any shelter, then he or she is considered "Literally Homeless." Another category is "Precariously Housed," and another, "Sheltered." A person can be considered homeless if the person is living with family or friends, or at a shelter, without a place of their own, for instance.

Water damage at lodge

Courtesy Waymon Harry/CTWS Emergency Management

The lobby floor was damaged by the standing water.

The beginning of the year brought significant water damage to the Kah-Nee-Ta lodge. Insurance assessors were at the resort this week, making a cost estimate of the damage, said Dan Martinez, director of tribal Emergency Management.

The tribes' insurance carries a deductible, as a matter of course; so there will be a cost to the organization.

On January 2 a security team checked on the lodge, finding standing water on the main floor and in the lower floor offices, Mr. Martinez said.

They found the source of the water: A toilet in a restroom on the upper floor was running, spilling over and draining through the walls to the main floor and lower floor offices. Besides the structural damage, the water got into electrical units and downstairs computers.

The tribal workers removed the carpet and furniture that was soaked, filling an industrial sized dumpster.
