StrongHearts Native Helpline working to address crisis

New studies confirm Native Americans are diagnosed with Covid-19 at a much higher rate, compounding domestic violence numbers

StrongHearts Native Helpline—the free, anonymous and culturally appropriate helpline for Native Americans affected by domestic, dating and sexual violence—has expanded its services to address the needs of a population disproportionately affected by both the Covid-19 pandemic and domestic violence.

The organization has added online chat and sexual violence advocacy, and is currently recruiting advocates to soon provide 24-hour services to meet demand from Native Americans along with referrals to resources such as legal advocacy, shelters and Native-centered domestic violence programs in each community as available.

“We’re alarmed by trends in domestic violence across the country during the pandemic. It’s a crisis within a crisis,” said Lori Jump, director of StrongHearts Native Helpline.

“Tribal communities are acutely impacted by this issue. Our organization is working to reach out to our relatives in Indian Country with advocates who understand their experience in a personal and authentic way.”

New studies confirm layered suffering

As reported by the Radiological Society of North America earlier this month:

Lockdowns during the pandemic have contributed to increased rates of domestic violence across the country, and many victims are trapped for longer hours with their abusers.

Indian Country includes an estimated 6.79 million people from 573 federally recognized tribes, and these individuals experience domestic violence at much higher rates.

The effects of the pandemic on Native Americans are stark:

Another recent study—cited by the Centers for Disease Control—found that in the 23 states studied, Native Americans were diagnosed with Covid-19 at a rate 3.5 times higher than the non-Hispanic white population.

According to the National Institute of Justice:

More than one in two Native women—55.5 percent—and one in three Native men—43.2 percent—have experienced physical violence by intimate partners in their lifetime.

Scaling services to answer a surge in demand

“The impact of Covid-19, layered on top of a lack of sufficient health care, is compounding the marginalization and victimization of Indigenous peoples,” Jump said.

“With an expanded staff and 24-hour services, we can be a lifeline to a highly vulnerable population during an exceedingly challenging time.”

StrongHearts Native Helpline offers nationwide support to a historically underserved population disproportionately affected by intimate partner violence.

While the Helpline currently operates daily from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m., there remains a need for 24-7 assistance.

The new online chat advocacy gives those in need of help the option to reach out in a more discreet manner without needing to speak on the phone.

Additionally, the Helpline’s launch of sexual violence advocacy addresses specific trauma experienced by victim-survivors of sexual violence.

These new initiatives, paired with plans to hire additional advocates, will support the growing need for services.

About StrongHearts Native Helpline

StrongHearts Native Helpline was created by and built to serve Tribal communities across the United States.

It is a culturally-appropriate, anonymous, confidential and free service dedicated to serving Native survivors, concerned family members and friends affected by domestic, dating and sexual violence.

Connect with knowledgeable advocates who can provide lifesaving tools and immediate support to enable survivors to find safety and live lives free of abuse.

StrongHearts Native Helpline is a project of the National Indigenous Women’s Resource Center and the National Domestic Violence Hotline.

Oregon covid update

Covid-19 so far this month has claimed one more life in Oregon, raising the state’s death toll to 481, the Oregon Health Authority reported.

The Oregon Health Authority reported 190 new confirmed and presumptive cases of Covid-19 as of September 7, bringing the state total to 28,044.

The new cases reported today are in the following counties: Benton (3), Clackamas (18), Columbia (1), Curry (1), Deschutes (3), Jackson (13), Jefferson (1), Lane (14), Linn (2), Malheur (8), Marion (30), Morrow (1), Multnomah (50), Polk (3), Umatilla (14), Wasco (3), Washington (23), and Yamhill (2).

Oregon’s four-hundred and eighty-first Covid-19 death was an 89-year-old man in Lane County, who tested positive on August 27 and died on September 5, in his residence. He had underlying conditions. The Labor Day numbers were not yet available at this press time.
