School buses should have wi-fi: Senator

Students of the reservation, and other tribal and rural communities, often have long bus rides to and from school.

In the case of the Warm Springs Reservation, the school bus ride can take up to 50 minutes or more each way.

A new bill introduced in the U.S. Senate would provide wi-fi service to school buses, allowing students to continue their studies while traveling to and from the school. "Oregon students in rural and tribal communities taking long bus rides to and from school need wi-fi during those long stretches," said Sen. Ron Wyden, co-sponsor of the bill.

Wyden's co-sponsorship of the E-Rate Support for School Bus Wi-Fi Act is part of his agenda to expand broadband access and make high-speed internet affordable across Oregon, including his introduction of the Accessible, Affordable Internet for All Act.

Opposition to Snake River dam idea

Some environmental groups are opposing a proposal to breach the four lower Snake River Dams. Idaho's U.S. Rep. Mike Simpson put forth a $33.5 billion proposal to breach the four dams, as a means of saving salmon runs in the Snake River.

Environmental groups in Oregon and Washington are opposed to some aspects of the proposal, saying the terms would weaken the federal Endangered Species Act, and the Clean Water Act.

A key part of the proposal is a 35-year moratorium on dam-related lawsuits; and a 25-year moratorium on agriculture-related lawsuits.

The proposal would also give agriculture a bigger role in watershed improvement, and transfer fish management responsibility from the Bonneville Power Administration to a joint council of states and tribes.

The remaining major dams in the Columbia River Basin would get license extensions of 35 to 50 years.
