Cannabis Regulatory Commission

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs is seeking one tribal member candidate for appointment to the CTWS Cannabis Regulatory Commission.

The Cannabis Commission is responsible for regulating the CTWS-owned entities that engage in marijuana and hemp activities, including production, processing, and sale. The Cannabis Commission, among other duties, establishes regulations pertaining to the licensing and regulation of marijuana and hemp activities on the reservation and oversees licensing and civil enforcement.

The Cannabis Commission is comprised of three members, each serving for three-year terms. At all times, at least one Cannabis Commissioner shall be a tribal member, and one Cannabis Commissioner shall be a non-tribal member. The Commissioners receive compensation at the rate set by the Tribal Council, which is $500 per full day meeting, $125 per hour for phone conferences; $60 per hour for outside work not to exceed six hours; and for travel at government mileage rate and reasonable and necessary expenses.

They meet as frequently as necessary but at least quarterly. Qualifications for the Cannabis Commission include members that can collectively represent the following areas of expertise and knowledge:

Law enforcement, federal drug policy, and drug and alcohol dependency and dependency treatment: Required. Pharmaceutical, alcohol, or other controlled substance production, processing and regulation: Desired. Food cultivation and processing; finance and banking; medicine and medical treatment: Desired.

The following individuals may not serve as Cannabis Commissioners: Members of Tribal Council. Members of the board of directors of any licensee or tribally-owned enterprise that engages in marijuana activity. Employees of any licensee or tribally-owned enterprise that engages in any marijuana activity. Individuals who would not be eligible to receive a permit under WSTC Chapter 743.

All appointments will be subject to criminal background check and credit check. To apply, please send a statement of interest and qualifications no later than 5 p.m. on September 30, 2024 in accordance with one of the following:
