CENSUS BUREAU ASKS, "WERE YOU COUNTED?"

FINAL PUBLIC APPEAL TO ENSURE COMPLETE COUNT

"Were you and all the members of your household counted in the 1990 Census?" That's the question the Census Bureau is asking all Oregon residents as the census nears completion. "Were You Counted" is an important follow-up effort, part of a series of operations planned to ensure a complete count for Oregon and the nation.

Oregon residents who feel they were missed can also provide information over the telephone via a toll-free number. Beginning June 11, and continuing for one month, toll-free assistance is available 7 days a week between 9:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m.. The toll free number is 1-800-999-1990.

Census information is used to apportion seats in the U.S House of Representatives, and will be used to redefine Oregon's congressional and legislative districts. Census figures also play a major role in sending billions of federal and state dollars back to communities for education, health, child care, and other public programs and facilities. Census data is also vitally important to local governments in planning to meet future community needs, attracting new business and industry, and is used extensively by businesses in making economic decisions.

The Tribe has recently concluded negotiations with various banks for a banking package which would be most beneficial to the Tribe and tribal members. The Tribe has decided to bank with First Interstate Bank of Oregon. The following is First Interstate Bank of Oregon's welcoming comments.

We at First Interstate Bank appreciate the opportunity of providing the banking for the Confederated Tribes of the Grand Ronde. As part of that service, we are extending a special Welcome Package to all the tribal members and staff. This includes the following:

Arrangements have been made at the various branches of the bank to accommodate this arrangement. When you go into one of our branches please contact one of the Personal Bankers listed, present your tribal ID card for assistance and they will answer your questions and open your new accounts.
