

EDUCATION OPPORTUNITIES

Oregon CIS — The link to a bright future!

Do you need a new occupation? How about a resume? You can have access to both and more through the Oregon Career Information System. This system is available in the Education Division computer lab as well as on the Internet. It is exceptionally useful in the exploration, research, and planning solutions for schools, colleges, agencies and businesses. There are three main sections of the CIS system. They are as follows:

- ✓ Occupation and Employment
- ✓ Education and Training
- ✓ Exploration Tools

Each section has ideas on what occupation you should go into, types of self-employment available, military employment options, goal setting, administrative tools, programs of study and training and a national school sort. You can write letters, devise a career plan, or just discover and explore! To top it off you can do a SKILLS or IDEAS assessment. The SKILLS assessment is a self-assessment tool to identify occupations that use the skills you want to use in your work. The IDEAS assessment is an optional component that is not available to all sites; it is a formal career assessment inventory that measures occupational interests. To access the CIS website go to the Education Division Computer Lab or the CIS website at <http://oregoncis.uoregon.edu> or you can visit the Tribe's Social Services department.

Don't miss out on this career opportunity!
