2004 Summer Academic Enrichment Program

The Headland Indian Health Careers Program is an eight-week summer program (June 6 - July 31, 2004) designed to increase the science and mathematics backgrounds and communication skills of American Indian students interested in a health career and presently in their senior year of high school or freshman year of college. Applicants should have completed at least two years of algebra and two science courses and maintained at least a 2.50 GPA (B-/C+ average) in high school.

This academic enrichment and reinforcement program consists of mini-block courses in Calculus, Chemistry, Physics, Biology and Communication and Writing Skills and is designed to increase the students' backgrounds and skills so they may achieve levels of performance necessary for rigorous college academics. Topics are presented in a series of lectures and laboratories, which are complemented with individual tutorials.

Participants receive: All expenses paid (room, board and round trip airfare) and $500 stipend. The program will be held on the main campus of the University of Oklahoma in Norman.

Counselor positions are also available: College Upperclassmen and Health Professional Students will be selected to serve as dorm counselors, tutors and role models for the participants. Counselors will be provided with free room and board during the eight week program as well as transportation costs and receive a $1,600 stipend.

This is not a summer camp, it is an intensive and rigorous academic program. Participants will be expected to attend all classes and field trips, keep up with a rigorous schedule and large amounts of homework, give a formal cultural presentation (speech) and write a term paper on their Tribe.

Free Training And Curriculum for Oregon Teachers

On March 6, middle school teachers from across the state can attend a free training workshop introducing Beyond the Oregon Trail: Oregon's Untold History. Developed by educational experts, this new history curriculum explores the experiences of Native Americans, non-Natives, African Americans, Asian Americans and Latinos from before statehood through the present day.

Oregon Uniting, a 501(c) (3) non profit, spent two years developing the multicultural curriculum to meet CIM's and Social Science state standards. They are hosting the full day training from 8:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Native Student Community Center at Portland State University. The event is free to any teacher who registers in advance and every attendee will be provided with a free copy of the curriculum to use in their own classes.

The training will cover the history included in the curriculum and present strategies for discussing racism in the middle school classroom.
