"Great Tribal Leaders of Modern Times" Class Offered At Grand Ronde

The Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde and Portland State University are partnering this fall to offer "Great Tribal Leaders of Modern Times." The class will meet Thursday from 6 to 8:50 p.m. in the Education Division Building, room 126-A. The first class meeting is Thursday September 29, and the class meets weekly through December 8.

The class can be taken as a non-credit course, taken for upper-division undergraduate (300-level) or for graduate-level (500-level) credit. Tuition is $350 for non-credit registration, $800 for undergraduate credit and $1,350 for graduate credit. The textbook is included in the registration cost.

This series presents videotaped interviews with modern Tribal leaders, and spans the fields of political science, American history, Native American studies, U.S. government, multi-cultural studies and sociology. Nearly 30 modern Tribal leaders have been interviewed to date, including CTGR's own Kathryn Harrison. Instructing the course is Elizabeth Furse, former U.S. congressional representative.

For more information on the class or to add your name to the signup sheet contact Joshua Clift at 503-879-1635 or John Harp at 503-879-4591.
