Scholarships for Native American Students

Catching the Dream offers 220 scholarships this year to Native college students in the U. S. Students must have outstanding academic records, test scores and leadership abilities. They must submit an essay, three letters of recommendation, high school transcripts and ACT or SAT test scores. They must also seek and apply for all other sources of funds, including private scholarships. Applicants should at a minimum find all other scholarships on www.fastweb.com

For more information, contact Mary Frost or Dean Chavers, 8200 Mountain Road, NE, Suite 203, Albuquerque, NM 87110. Phone: 505-262-2351 or email: Nscholarsh@aol.com or visit www.catchingthedream.org

Sapsik'walá Program

Do you have a bachelor's degree? Are you a member of an Indian Tribe or Band or a descendent of a parent or grandparent who meets Tribal membership qualifications?

Below is an opportunity for anyone interested in entering into a Master of Arts in Teaching Program (for initial teaching licensure) at the University of Oregon:

The Sapsik'walá program is a scholarship program to benefit and train American Indian students to become professional educators. Qualified applicants choose an elementary, middle school or high school level teacher education program at the UO College of Education. Sapsik'walá Program Scholarship recipients receive tuition and fees, a monthly stipend, and a book allowance. Students will also be provided admissions and advisement support within the program and through the Coordinator of Native Student Enrollment Services and the Office of Multicultural Education.

For more information contact Tom Ball: tball@uoregon.edu or 541-346-1485 or Pat Rounds: plrounds@uoregon.edu or 541-346-1056.

American University Washington Internships For Native Students (WINS) Program:

This program is designed for American Indian and Alaska Native Students to intern and study in Washington, D.C. for the semester or the summer. Students work 35-40 hours a week in a Federal Agency (including such agencies as the FBI) which sponsors American Indian and Alaska Native students from across the country and develops leadership skills.

WINS student interns take two courses in the fall or spring-term and earn 9 credit hours, and in the summer they take two courses and earn 6 credit hours. Through the WINS sponsorship, program participants may receive: transportation to and from Washington, D.C., tuition and books, stipend and books, housing at American University's Tenley Campus dormitories, meal plans and an internship in the capital.

For more information and/or to apply: Contact David Brown — Dean of the Washington Semester Program at 1-800-424-2600 or www.american.edu/wins/apply.html
