

Education Department Has Been Busy

Interim K-5 Supervisor Matt Bucknell (l) and Early Childhood Education Director Tribal member Vikki Bishop

On Wednesday, October 11, the Education Department hosted an open house, made education materials available and also opened all of the buildings to the public. Teriyaki Chicken was the main course for dinner.

Tribal youth Eddie Larsen tries on his new hat.

▲ On the weekend of October 13-15, the Youth Education Department took four students camping at Wychus Creek, Crooked River National Grassland. Pictured here are Biologist Jeffry Gottfried, Linfield intern with Educational Recreational Adventures Angela Henderson, Kerrina Grout, Julian Rock, Molly Mathews and Shylee Mercier. The trip was made possible through a grant from Spirit Mountain Community Fund.

Photos by
Toby McClary

Tribal member Diana Sohappy made hats for each of the entire Lilu "Wolf" class. Pictured here is Tribal members Kale Sohappy, Diana Sohappy and community youth Izika Pacheco.

▲ Earlier this month, the West Valley Fire Department made a visit to the HeadStart/Preschool to teach the students about fire prevention and safety. They also let the students use the fire hose.

◀ Here, Tribal member Risa Chrestensen gets ready to shoot water out of the fire hose while Byron Wakefield of the West Valley Fire Department instructs her on proper technique.