Attention Female High School Students Interested In Math And Science

The CURIE Academy is a one-week summer residential program for high school girls who excel in math and science, enjoy solving problems, and want to learn more about careers in engineering. Cornell University's world-renowned faculty and graduate students lead academy participants in classes, lab sessions and project research. Participants work in teams to solve problems that mirror real-life situations. In addition, social events, panel discussions and other out-of-classroom activities provide participants with opportunities to network informally with each other and Cornell faculty, staff and students.

Primary goals of this program include:

■ Exposing girls to the exciting opportunities existing for them in engineering

■ Helping girls understand that women belong and are needed in the science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) fields
BR>> Demonstrating the connections between the study of engineering and solving problems affecting people and society.

You will find all program materials including the application online at www.engineering.cornell.edu/curie

Applications from girls who belong to groups severely underrepresented in engineering — African Americans, Native Americans and Hispanics/Latinas are encouraged. Eligibility and application requirements may be found at www.engineering.cornell.edu/curie The application must be postmarked by April 16, 2007.

If you have questions about the program, please contact us at cj38@cornell.edu or 607-255-0735.

Chemeketa Community College Foundation Scholarships

The Chemeketa Community College Foundation administers several scholarship programs for Chemeketa students. Interested students will complete one application form and they will be considered for every scholarship for which they are eligible. Applications for the 2007-2008 academic year will be available on March 5, deadline April 6, 2007. For an application, or more information, visit www.chemeketa.edu/foundation/scholarships.html, or call Luhui Whitebear, CTGR Scholarship Coordinator at 503-879-1345 or 1-800-422-0232 ext 1345.

Humboldt State University Scientific Leadership Scholars Program

Students in good academic standing in Computer Science, Environmental Resources Engineering, or Mathematics will receive annual scholarships of $3623 as a part of their total financial aid package. This scholarship will reduce the need for student loans or to work while a student. Applicants will receive assistance with federal financial aid forms (FAFSA) and applications for other sources of funding to supplement scholarship and cover expenses. Native American students and students that are first generation to attend the university will be priority applicants. However, any student that meets the academic standards and financial need requirement will be considered. For more information, please visit www.humboldt.edu/~sls, call 707-826-4348, or email sls@humboldt.edu
