

Family Relationships class starts April 1

Chemeketa Community College is offering HDF222 Family Relationships beginning at 4:30 p.m. today in the Adult Education Building, Room 126, in Grand Ronde.

The class, which earns three college credits, examines communication patterns and relationships between adults and children, and within intimate personal relations, such as marriage, families and couples. The credits can be applied toward an associate degree at Chemeketa.

Tribal Academic Adviser Trinity Minahan said that even though the class starts April 1, students can register for the class during the first two weeks.

Family Relationships will be held 4:30 to 7:20 p.m. Tuesdays.

Cost is $192 and eligible Tribal members can access the Part-Time College Program to pay for the course. For more information about that process, contact John Harp at 503-879-4591.
