

Pumpkin patch fun

Tribal members and Chak Chak classroom students Cole Woods, 3, front, and Braxton Stonebrink, 3, work to carry their pumpkins out of the pumpkin patch during Early Childhood Education's visit to the Heiser Farms pumpkin patch in Dayton on Tuesday, Oct. 19. The Chak Chak, Lilu and Mawich classes went on the field trip.

Tribal member KalleighAnn Cox, 4, gets a package of apples out of a box while getting lunch during Early Childhood Education's visit to the Heiser Farms pumpkin patch in Dayton on Tuesday, Oct. 19.

Tribal descendant Azen Pacheco, 4, exits a slide at Heiser Farms during Early Childhood Education's field trip there on Tuesday, Oct. 19.

Tribal member Gracie Mercier, 3, leads the way as Summer Townsend, Juan Navarro, on-call substitute Chelsey Bryant and Tribal member Cohen Haller, 4, climb to the top after sliding down the fast slide at Heiser Farms pumpkin patch during Early Childhood Education's visit to Dayton farm on Tuesday, Oct. 19. Mercier is a student in the Chak Chak classroom and the other children are in the Mawich class.

Tribal descendant William Peters, a student in the Lilu classroom, tries to bag the pumpkin he picked during Early Childhood Education's visit to the Heiser Farms pumpkin patch in Dayton on Tuesday, Oct. 19.

Photos by Michelle Alaimo