Life Skills class offered for ex-casino employees

Tribal members who have been separated from a job at Spirit Mountain Casino and would like to go back to work may be interested in a Life Skills class being offered by the Tribal 477/Vocational Rehabilitation programs in conjunction with the casino's Tribal Career Development Office.

Completion of the class will be a major consideration for being rehired at the casino, although Tribal members need to remember that every position at the casino requires obtaining a state gaming license.

The Life Skills class will help people identify and problem solve roadblocks to a healthy employment experience and begin to achieve life balance.

"Discover your full potential to be the best you can be," instructor Bonnie Kahn says. "Learn the art of eliminating self-defeating behavior and the joy of setting yourself up for success. Life Skills/Job Skills is a comprehensive eight-week course that will give you the skills to live a satisfying life at home and work."

Classes will be held in the Grand Ronde Community Center from 10 a.m. to noon starting Monday, April 11.

People interested in the classes should contact Tribal Vocational Rehabilitation/477 Supervisor Leslie Riggs at 503-879-3098, casino Tribal Career Development Manager Sam Henny at 503-879-3896, casino Tribal Developmentor David Dehart at 503-879-3867 or casino Tribal Developmentor Misty Carl at 503-879-3813. ■
