Groups form Helping Hands

The Clothes Closet, iskam məkʰmək haws and A Cause For Paws have started an ad hoc group called Grand Ronde Helping Hands and is inviting community members to join the effort of supporting local families.

"The goal is to bring those of us together who are supporting families in Grand Ronde to share the services and resources we provide and create a resource guide we can all use," said Food Bank Coordinator Francene Ambrose.

The next meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 13, at the Food Bank, 9675 Grand Ronde Road.

"If you provide any types of services to families in our community, please consider attending," Ambrose said. "We are looking for meal site calendars, food box sites, clothes closets, showers and laundry service. We are asking churches, church groups, departments and support groups to share with us. We are also collecting items for homeless families in our area, items for camping, bed in a bag, reusable water jugs, silverware, plates, etc."

There also will be a collection day at the Food Bank from 2 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 21, seeking donations of Halloween costumes, towels, warm clothing, shoes and bedding items.

If you are interested in joining the effort, contact Ambrose at 503-879-3663 or at fambrose@marionpolkfoodshare.org. ■

Tribe receives $101,969 Justice grant

The Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde received a $101,969 community policing grant from the U.S. Department of Justice, it was announced on Monday, Sept. 21.

The grant will be used to purchase equipment, including a base radio for the new Grand Ronde Police Station.

The award was part of 206 awards totaling more than $97 million awarded to Native Tribes and Alaska Native villages by the Justice Department.

"These funds will make a significant impact on enhancing community safety and prevention programs throughout Oregon," said Acting U.S. Attorney Billy J. Williams. ■
