Due diligence needs to be completed on property

RACETRACK continued from front page

casino at the racetrack, which Oregon Tribes successfully combatted. Oregon voters overwhelmingly rejected the idea of private casinos in the state in the November 2012 election.

Multnomah Greyhound Park also is located within the historic homelands of the Cascade and Clackamas Chinook Tribes, two Tribes that confederated at Grand Ronde. The Tribes ceded the area to the federal government in the Willamette Valley Treaty of 1855.

Leno said that the Tribe continues to maintain a strong connection to its ceded lands and has partnered with local jurisdictions on a number of projects in Multnomah County. Previously, Grand Ronde has invested in several Portland area projects, including Gregory Lofts, Russelville Commons and the Tribe's current Portland area office on Barbur Boulevard.

"It's nice to know that Multnomah Greyhound Park will have a new life under Tribal ownership," Leno said. "While we cannot rule anything out in terms of the future of gaming in Oregon, our priority at this time is to develop this property in a manner that diversifies our investment holdings."

Tribal Economic Development Director Titu Asghar said the Tribe still must complete due diligence on the property.

The purchase price of the greyhound track, which closed in 2004 and still has the old grandstand facilities in place, was not disclosed. ■

Patient Portal open for business

Clients of the Grand Ronde Health & Wellness Center now have a 21st century avenue through which to handle their health care needs.

The Patient Portal, a secure, confidential and easy-to-use website, opened for business in early February.

"The Patient Portal gives a patient and their family 24-hour access to their medical records," said Darin Riggs, Tribal Clinical Applications coordinator. "Patient Portal uses the latest encryption technology to deliver secure communications between patients and their provider team."

Patients can correspond with their provider team; view, download or share their personal health record, including such data as medications, immunizations and tests; obtain around-the-clock health and educational information; and maintain account data, including user name, password and access privileges.

In the future, Riggs said, patients will be able to request prescription refills and receive appointment reminders through the website.

To sign up, people should contact Patient Registration at the Health & Wellness Center and request a Patient Portal sign-up sheet.

People will need a valid e-mail address. A token will be assigned and patients will have 30 days with which to complete their portal registration. If the token expires, a patient will need to ask for a new one. ■
