

Tribal Lands Manager Jan Looking Wolf Reibach, left, sings during a concert at the Chehalem Cultural Center in Newberg on Friday, Dec. 11. Looking Wolf's band, One Heart, performed with him and Tribal Elder Deitz Peters, right, sang and played the flute on a couple of songs as did Looking Wolf's brother, Harris Reibach. The concert marked Looking Wolf's retirement as a recording artist and from touring. He recently recorded his 20th, and last, studio album, but will continue to perform local concerts. Reibach, Peters and Peters' wife, Rose, also danced to a few songs throughout the concert.

Farewell concert

Tribal Council members Chris Mercier, left, Jon A. George, second from left, and Denise Harvey, right, gift Jan Looking Wolf Reibach a Tilikum Crossing Pendleton blanket during his concert at the Chehalem Cultural Center on Friday, Dec. 11. Looking Wolf was also presented with several awards including an achievement award for his outstanding contributions to the Native flute community from High Spirits Music and an humanitarian award for his nonprofit music projects from Spirit Wind Records.

Jan Looking Wolf Reibach signs CDs after his concert at the Chehalem Cultural Center on Friday, Dec. 11.

Photos by Michelle Alaimo

Visit theTribe's
facebook
page to see more photos

Susie Shaw

Independent Finance Professional

Is Your "Legacy" in Order?

I can help with Wills, Avoid Probate, Medical Directives, Trusts, Power of Attorney, and Life Insurance.

Call 971-770-4898

For Free Informational Appointment

Paid ad

Free online learning source

The information includes:
Everyday life
Math and money
Computer training
Online classes
Work and career information
Check it out at www.gcflearnfree.org