

The Grand Ronde Canoe Family paddles in štankiya as they enter the Port of Olympia during Landing Day of the Paddle to Nisqually in Olympia, Wash., on Saturday, July 30.

Kailiyah Krehbiel dances during the Grand Ronde Canoe Family's protocol for the Paddle to Nisqually on the Nisqually Indian Reservation near Olympia, Wash., on Tuesday, Aug. 2.

Grand Ronde Canoe Family skipper Bobby Mercier introduces the Canoe Family and asks for permission from the Nisqually Indian Tribe to come ashore during Landing Day protocol for the Paddle to Nisqually held at the Port of Olympia in Olympia, Wash., on Saturday, July 30.

At the Grand Ronde Canoe Family's camp, Nokoa Mercier carves a design in a paddle that was gifted later that day during protocol.

Andrea Grijalva dances to the "Salmon Song" during the Grand Ronde Canoe Family's protocol for Paddle to Nisqually on the Nisqually Indian Reservation near Olympia, Wash., on Tuesday, Aug. 2. Following her is Nya Ainam, SuSun Fisher (Siletz) and Cristina Lara.