Lane Community College offering Chinuk Wawa classes

EUGENE – Lane Community College is offering “Chinuk Wawa” (CW 101) from 4 to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday at its campus in Eugene starting the last week of September.

Grand Ronde Tribal members can take the class, which is the first in a yearlong sequence, as a credit class or as a continuing education class.

Continuing education students enrolled in the class will determine their own level of engagement in terms of attendance, test taking, assignments, etc.

Tuition is approximately $400 to $505 per term for the four-credit class. However, continuing education students only pay a one-time fee of about $10.

Students can enroll now for fall classes online at www.lanecc.edu. The CRN for the class is 22576.

University of Oregon students also can have dual enrollment to take the class. Contact an academic adviser for more information.
