Elder Al Miller, front right, talks with Patrick Hieman, left, of the Willamette Valley Mushroom Society about a catathelasma ventricosum mushroom as Elder Ida Paterson, second from left, Dale Bear, center rear, of the Willamette Valley Mushroom Society, and Dave Good, rear right, before the start of a Mushroom Seminar held in the Elders Activity Center on Tuesday, Oct. 16. Participants learned how to identify edible mushrooms and received suggestions on where to locate them. The seminar was sponsored by the Natural Resources Department's Parks and Recreation Program and presented by the Willamette Valley Mushroom Society.

A container with a combination of chanterelle and lobster mushrooms was on display during a Mushroom Seminar held in the Elders Activity Center on Tuesday, Oct. 16. Participants learned how to identify edible mushrooms and received suggestions on where to locate them.

Mushroom seminar, trip scheduled for Nov. 4

A second mushroom seminar will be held 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 4, at the Tribal Community Center, 9615 Grand Ronde Road, and will be hosted by the Oregon Mycological Society.

A van will be available for people who wish to go on a mushroom search.

Fall colors shining through

The sun shines through turning leaves along Hebo Road on Thursday, Oct. 18. The Grand Ronde area, as well as all of northwestern Oregon, enjoyed unseasonably pleasant weather in early to mid-October, with highs reaching the 70s and an unusual lack of rain. However, rain finally returned the week of Oct. 22-26 and helped strip trees of their colorful display.
