PROTECTION VS. STRIKES.

It would appear from the following written to the State Democrat and signed "S. S." that a high protective tariff does not check strikes and may even aggravate them.

The advocates of "protection" will please consider the following and give us the result of their consideration: Of the 226 important strikes which have occurred since Harrison's election only 27 have occurred in industries not specially "protected" by high tariff taxation. The remaining 199 were all in industries which, under the high tariff, have a monopoly of the market, and are supported by taxes levied on the labor employed in them, and all other industries. The silk-workers' strike in New Jersey was against a reduction of wages under a "protective" tax of 50 per cent. The coal operators of Pennsylvania, who shut down and threw 7,000 men out of employment, are protected by a tax of 75 cents a ton against the importation of soft coal. The New York carpet manufacturers, who marched their men in Harrison processions and cut wages all along the line after his election, are highly favored by the tariff.

The highly "protective" Clark thread mills in New Jersey forced a 15 per cent. reduction of wages in April, and in the same month 10,000 men were thrown out of work by the closing down of mills, mines and factories, all "protected." The coal and iron strikes in Pennsylvania against a reduction were followed by collapses in the woolen industry, for which a triple tariff is levied.

These cases are only a few from the long record of disasters, strikes and reductions of wages which have followed the adoption of the Republican declaration, that every dollar of the tax on whisky must be repealed rather than surrender a dollar of the tax on the necessities of life.

Our "protective tariff" friends view these things only from a projected and party standpoint. Our "party" rings out the cry, and we swell the chorus with happy exclamations of hearty endorsement, but our "party" sees the "hand writing on the wall," and with Harrison at the head, we advocate a revision of the tariff, so that in a measure we may drown the sounds of rejoicing of our Democratic friends at the downfall of Republican rule, also, as a result, by the voice of the people in the recent elections.

They are good workmen, may Oregon soon redeem herself from the "woolen thread" in which she was cast in our last election, and may our sheep husbandmen, our manufacturers and our every industry receive new life by a return to that system of taxation which guarantees equality to all alike.

AMERICAN LIGHTHOUSES.

The Lighthouse Board has submitted its report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1889, to the Secretary of the Treasury. At the close of the year there were under control of the board 1,021 lighthouses and lighted beacons, 1,325 lights on Western rivers, and 4,284 buoys of various kinds. In the maintenance of these there are employed 1,334 light keepers and a number of miscellaneous employees.

The estimates for the ensuing year are $2,576,700. The estimates for special appropriations aggregate $3,230,650. The deficiency estimate is $211,496.

The board reports that the effort to light Gedney Channel, New York Bay, by electric lights, has been successful thus far.—Scientific American.

An other deposit of tin ore is reported, this time in Langell valley, Klamath Co., Oregon. This makes three now known in the United States. One of these is now being worked in the Black hills, and the other is a recent discovery in Washington. If the Oregon and Washington deposits prove valuable, it will probably not be many years before the United States will cease to import that most valuable metal, and possibly begin exporting it.

The little cigarette is not kicking against the tobacco tax. It is thriving under it. According to the report of the commissioner of internal revenue, cigarette manufacturing is the most prosperous industry in the country. The increase in the number of cigarettes smoked in this country last year is something near $3,000,000. And yet the President says that tobacco culture is an important agricultural industry which needs to be relieved from taxation, while the workmen should be forced to continue paying double price for his flannel shirt and for the salt that goes into his bread. The President's view seems to be based on the theory that the cigarette is a tender little article that needs the fostering care of the government, while the workman is a robust fellow who can stand double taxation. He will discover later on that the cigarette has no vote, while the workman has.—La Grande Journal.

GENERAL NEWS.

A cave occurred at the Lane mine, Angeles camp, Calaveras co., Cal., on the 25th ult., by which sixteen men lost their lives. All hope of recovering the bodies has been given up. Nearly all have families.

While electricity is killing people on the smallest provocation and burning buildings, there are two murderers waiting execution in New York for the courts to find out whether it will do fatal work. Some of the inquests ought to afford information.

The government of the kingdom of Hawaii is seriously considering how to stop Chinese immigration. The Chinese population already amounts to about one fifth of the entire population, on the island and if not checked they will soon be in the ascendancy, and trouble may follow.

It is reported that the Portuguese government is anxious for Benito to leave Portugal. The edicts with which the people of Brazil accepted the overthrow of the empire and the establishment of a republic encourages the radicals of Lisbon to believe that they will eventually achieve a quiet, bloodless revolution in Portugal.

It is reported that six hundred and fifty families in Miner county, South Dakota, are in need of aid if they escape starvation this winter. Gov. Mellette says the reports of the suffering have not been exaggerated, and the claim that there is but little suffering, is made by real estate men and boomers. A failure of crops is the cause of their sufferings.

Seattle, which a few months ago was devastated by fire, announces that it has raised $25,000, to be given to the winner of the Sullivan-Jackson fight, provided the mill takes place at or near Seattle within nine months. Those who contributed money to flame-swept Seattle to assist her in rebuilding her industries, evidently didn't include mills of the character suggested.—Sunday Welcome.

In Minnesota a new law is in operation which provides that any person found guilty the third time for drunkenness shall be imprisoned for thirty days in jail, with no alternative in way of fine. Since the law went into effect there has been a marked decrease in the number of drunken men seen on the streets. If the law were amended so as to make it applicable to the first offence, the number would still further decrease.—Ex.

At Portland on the 21st of Dec., the Metropolitan Electric Railway Company attempted to make a trial transit on second street, and accordingly after putting a car upon the track, turned on the current by which the cars were to be propelled. By some means the current got crossed with the Willamette Falls electric light wires and the telephone wires, burning out in an instant, so it is reported, about 600 telephones and 255 incandescent electric lamps, the latter being in Cordray's theatre.

Among the more important bills to be introduced by Senator Delph are the following: A bill to amend an act to provide for the Pacific railroad company, of a union office at Portland to repeal the exemption and timber culture law, and amend the homestead and desert land act; providing for a grain factory for the army and navy on the Pacific coast; for the settlement and payment of Indian debts for 1855-56.

One of the many schemes presented to the International maritime congress is by a retired army officer, who proposes a string of floating lighthouses across the ocean, some of them large enough to be used as hotels or places of refuge for shipwrecked people. They could be connected by cable with the land, and the daily news could thus be furnished to passing vessels. These beacons would mark out the ocean paths and prevent collisions at sea. The captain thinks that by submerging the structure below the action of the waves, the lighthouses would be stable and habitable.

Will the coming man write? Not at all. There will be no more need of his learning to write than of his learning to spin. Writing will have become one of the lost arts, and wholly unnecessary art, by the time the coming man appears. His writing will be done by the phonograph, which will be placed on his desk as pens and ink are now; and whenever he has a story, a poem, an essay, or a private letter to write he will simply talk into the phonograph and send on the plate which has recorded his words. The teaching of penmanship will be unknown in the school of the future, and writing in the present fashion will be regarded as a relic among barbaric methods, as the ancients to be.—Boston Herald.

A new explosive has been invented by two Hungarian engineers. It is called erosite, and is more powerful than dynamite by a ratio of 100 to 70. While the latter explosive frequently goes off through careless handling before anybody is ready for it, erosite may be carried from place to place with perfect safety. It can be used in rifles and cannons, and is far more deadly than gunpowder in war. Bombshells loaded with it, as proved by recent experiments, explode with fearful force. The secret of its manufacture has been purchased by the Austrian government, and it is closely kept by the Austrian war office. As a means of killing off enemies it would seem to be a better thing than the noiseful and smokeless powder, the secret of which is as closely held by the German government.
