Henry Goetz, who has been ill for some time past, was removed Wednesday to his farm home. Mr. Goetz came to town where he could procure medical treatment, but not improving as was expected, it was considered better to take him to the farm again. S. cruiser Baltimore, now with Admiral Dewey's fleet, was recently made a select part in the destruction of the Spanish fleet, is Stanley Huntley, son of Will Huntley, now of Hopland, Cal. It was reported on the street here this week that there was a case of scarlet fever at the Littlefield residence. We are happy to state that this was an error. Although there were symptoms of the disease developed in the little 4-year old child, when it was first taken ill, it has since been learned that the ailment was not scarlet fever but a case of ruberola, something in the nature of measles.

N. R. Smith of near Danville was in Bandon Tuesday, accompanied by Mr. G. Chamberlain of Nebraska who is visiting with Mr. Smith. Miss Josie and Frances Smith also visited here at the same time. They returned home Wednesday with the exception of Miss Josie who will remain awhile with her sisters, Mrs. M. F. and Mrs. W. D. Shoemaker.

We are sorry to note that it is expected in a few days to suspend the manufacture of broom handles at the factory in this city. It is stated the reason for this is that it is not considered safe to ship the broom handles during war times. Most of the product of this mill is shipped to Australia, and as it is a long distance the San Francisco shippers will not take any chances. The factory will saw out the lumber to be used in the construction of the new water-works before shutting down.

While B. F. Tupper was postmaster at this place in 1893 the mail carrier was robbed at a point a couple of miles the other side of Myrtle Point. The robbery occurred on the night of December 21, 1893. In the mail-pouch were money orders from the Bandon office to the amount of $221. This amount for some accountable reason had to be made good by Mr. Tupper. Understanding how unjust it was to tax this loss to the postmaster, who could in no manner be responsible for the occurrence, Representative Tongue has introduced a bill to reimburse Mr. Tupper for his loss. We are unable to learn the name of the mail carrier who was robbed at the time.

Capt. W. C. Coulson, of the U. S. revenue cutter service, as well as inspector of life-saving stations, was in Bandon Saturday last. The captain is on a tour of inspection of the life-saving stations on this coast, and his visit here was for the purpose of inspecting the station at this place. Besides attending to the usual routine duties of inspection, the captain also arranged with Captain Scott of the life-saving station for a code of signals. The latter to be used as a means of communications with any U. S. vessel that might happen off the mouth of the river and desire communication with the land. The code is so arranged that any message the ship may wish delivered can be taken by Captain Scott and then transmitted by telephone to the nearest telegraph station and from there forwarded to headquarters.

Much improvement is being made at the life-saving station here. The lifeboat has been repainted and other work done. A new boat-house is being built at the look-out on the beach. Another surf-boat will be received here the middle of next month.

and when this boat arrives the old one will be placed in the new house on the beach. This is a good idea and originated with Capt. Scott. It will obviate the necessity of waiting on the tide, and will allow putting the boat in the surf at any time.

Coos Bay News: Fred C. Sefton, formerly of this place, was a passenger on the steamer Fulton, Tuesday. He was on his way to San Francisco, where he will settle up some business connected with the sale of real estate by Mrs. Sefton. The property descended to Mrs. Sefton from her father, and up to a recent period was not considered a very desirable holding; but late developments resulted in an offer of $150,000, which has been accepted. A payment of $37,500 is to be made in six months, and the balance in two yearly payments. Less than a year ago Mr. Sefton offered the property for $100, but could find no buyer.

Fred was in this vicinity last fall representing the Home supply company of Portland. He is well known on the bay and at Coquille City, and has many friends at these places all of whom will be pleased to hear of his good fortune.

It is stated that all that is left of the Oregon National Guard today consists of but one battery of artillery, one troop of cavalry and two companies of infantry, company A, Third battalion, Wasco, and separate company K, Bandon. The two infantry companies were below the minimum required by law on the date of consolidation of the National Guard to form the Second Oregon volunteer infantry, and were not considered in the consolidation. It is also stated that the remnants of the various companies consolidated will be discharged from the service of the state. This will result in the reorganization of the National Guard on a different basis from that heretofore adopted. It will be reorganized on strictly military lines and many reforms inaugurated. This means that a more rigid physical examination will be enforced on the basis of that prescribed for the volunteer army. Enlistments will be confined to those between the ages of 18 and 45 years. What effect this will have on company K remains to be seen, but it is supposed that the company will have to go through the same process as other companies which may be reorganized in the state in the near future.

Wednesday night the citizens of Bandon and vicinity were treated to a grand display of political oratory. Both sides of the question were ably portrayed by two able men. The contestants were Hon. T. J. McClary of Quartzville, and Hon. J. B. Eddy of Roseburg. Quartzville is located on the Santiam river, a stream which divides Marion and Linn counties. Eddy is a member of the state board of railroad commissioners. Mr. McClary had the opening and close of the debate, a decided advantage in a case of this kind. He is an orator of no mean ability and has a style of speaking peculiarly his own. He is a little man, and shifts nimbly from one side of the stage to the other. His sayings as well as his gestures are original and grotesque. He confined his remarks to the calamity dodge as usual, saying a great many things that were true while perverting many others. Mr. McClary is a man who will always amuse an audience and work it up to a pitch of enthusiasm but he will never convince any man who is not already possessed of the same idea as himself. He amuses too much to allow of a serious consideration of what he says.

His declaration that only 1 out of every 5 members of the National Guard passed the military examination was a pure and simple fabrication. He made this declaration in the face of the fact that every one in the audience knew better, as the lowest percentage any company had was 60 per cent. He also very plainly intimated that there wasn't an honest man outside the Populist party. He also claimed that his party had a mortgage on the intelligence of the country as well as every other advantageous prerogative.

Mr. Eddy followed and proved to be exactly the reverse of his opponent. He is a large, strong man and moved around very little during his discourse. He talks with no emphasis whatever and avoided as much as possible the grand stand plays affected by Mr. McClary. Mr. Eddy cited the history of nations to show the fallacy of the silver theory. His argument was well sustained throughout, nothing being said that could be disproved by his opponent. Several points brought out by Mr. McClary were successfully combated by Mr. Eddy although he was given little credit for it by the opposing element.

Mr. Eddy is a forcible and entertaining talker as well as honest and truthful in his statements.

A Card.

For several years we have been walking in company with a proposition that has been sapping our substance to the detriment of our responsible customers. That proposition is credit. Credit is and has been the enemy of honest business, and we have cut loose, and from after June 1st will sell our goods for cash, or its equivalent in all farm products or any other commodity we may be able to handle. It costs too much to keep books, hence ours will be closed and all accounts must be settled by cash or note. Justice to ourselves demands this course for us. The prices of goods in every department will be adjusted to suit the new basis and will talk for themselves.

Respectfully,
MAST & DYER,

Spanish Fleet Reported to Be Hemmed in at Santiago de Cuba.

Washington, May 26.—A special dispatch states that Cervera's Spanish squadron is in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. It is also claimed that Sampson and Schley are off the harbor and have the Spanish fleet completely bottled up. Inquiry of Secretary Long failed to get a denial of the above facts and the report is no doubt true.

Sad Accident.

Saturday morning last Wm. Hutchison, fireman on the steamer Dispatch met his death at Parkersburg by drowning. Many of his friends here saw him leave on the morning boat attending to his duties and appearing as well and hearty as any amongst them. When the steamer Fawn arrived here at noon of the same day she had on board in her cabin his lifeless body stiffened in death. It was a shock to all his friends and acquaintances as they could scarcely believe what they heard or what they saw or that it could be possible that Billy was the dead man lying before them with his upturned face to the sky, and his sightless eyes staring in that glassy way so peculiar to death. Many turned away from the scene with tears in their eyes and expressions of sorrow for the unfortunate wife and babes of the dead man upon whose cold form they had just gazed.

Saturday morning the Dispatch left here as usual to make her regular run to Coquille and return. Everything went well until Parkersburg was reached. At this place it was customary to take on fuel. This task was soon completed and the steamer proceeded on her way. Captain White was at the wheel and without any warning he became aware that the engines had been reversed and the boat brought to a stand still and was soon going astern. At almost the same instant he was called by Frank Barrows and told that an accident had happened and someone was overboard. He looked back over the stern of the boat and saw an object floating and also heard the fall of the steamer's boat to the deck as one of the boys were taking it down to get it into the water. The deck in front of him was shoved into the stream and drove rapidly toward the drowning man. It had reached within a few feet of him when he sank from sight and that was the last seen of him for over an hour when his dead body was fished out of the river by Jesse Leneve and Dave Perkins. When the crew looked over the boat it was found that Billy Hutchison was missing, and that left no doubt that he was the one who had met with an untimely death. After working some time in trying to recover the body the crew gave up the quest and proceeded on their way. Some way up the river the steamer Fawn was met and the crew informed of the accident. When the letter reached Parkersburg the body had already been recovered. It was placed aboard the little boat and brought to this city.

The cause of the accident or how Billy came to fall overboard is conjectural. It is generally supposed that he was splitting wood on the forward deck, and that he struck his ax into one of the slabs piled up higher than his head. In pulling the ax out it is thought he lost his balance and toppled over into the water.

Frank Barrows, the engineer, observed an object float past the side door and he sprang to one of the windows and looked out. He saw a man struggling in the water and immediately reversed his engines. He gave the alarm and the rest has already been told.

Billy was an excellent swimmer and all who are aware of this fact are at a loss to understand how it was that he sank so soon. It is claimed that he suffered from asthma and this at times produced partial heart-failure, and it is supposed that he was taken with one of these spells while in the water. This would account in a measure for his inability to keep up any longer than he did.

The funeral was held Sunday at Bandon. The Dispatch conveyed the body from here, and also a large concourse of relatives and friends to mourn his death. The funeral takes place Sunday afternoon.

Dr. S. L. Roberts, a physician of Myrtle Point was thrown from his horse while visiting a patient at the Whittington place on the South Fork last night and severely injured, but not dangerous.

Mrs. Abernathy, who was injured in the runaway accident near here a few weeks ago is mending very slowly. Mrs. Scofield is doing better and the chances are in her favor.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm has no equal as a household liniment. It is the best remedy known for rheumatism, lame back, neuralgia; while for sprains, cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, and sore throat, it is invaluable. Wertz & Pike, merchants, Fernandina, Fla., write: "Everyone who buys a bottle of Chamberlain's Remedies, comes back and says it is the best medicine he has ever used." 25 and 50 cents per bottle at C Y Lowe's drug store.

The City Election.

Bandon's city election took place Monday. It was a quiet affair and a light vote polled. The greatest interest centered on the offices of recorder and marshal. For the former were two candidates and the latter three. For recorder J. M. Upton and Geo. P. Topping were the nominees. For marshal J. C. Smith, E. M. Blackberry and Sol J. Culver were the contestants. For Trustees eight names were in the field. The latter office is one which there seems to be little aspiration for. Of the seven those lowest on the list in the matter of votes declared they did not desire to serve and this more than any other reason accounts for the light vote cast for them. Following is the result of the balloting:

FOR RECORDER.

Geo. P. Topping..... 68
J. M. Upton..... 28

FOR MARSHAL.

E. M. Blackberry..... 63
J. C. Smith..... 39
Sol J. Culver..... 26

FOR TRUSTEES.

J. W. Felton..... 110
E. V. Vowell..... 95
Charles Marjory..... 74
James Cartwright..... 74
C. Y. Lowe..... 54
R. Harrington..... 54
M. I. Swift..... 52
James Barklow..... 28

There being but five trustees to serve the five named receiving the highest vote were declared elected. Mr. Harrington and Mr. Lowe were tied. As both these gentlemen decline to serve it is probable that the office will go to Mr. Swift, he having the next highest vote. Felton and Marjory are members of the old board.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is completely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.
