J. F. Hagg sustained the loss of 7 feet of 9 inch cable, a day or two ago, somewhere above Parkersburg, by the capsizing of the scow upon which he was transporting them. Jack Hagg who was on the scow with his father went under but escaped with a good ducking while Mr. Hagg eluded over as the scow tarred and succeeded in keeping on top only getting one foot into the water.

J. W. Wilson while helping to repair the wharf at Prosper, got a fall yesterday morning that shook him up considerably. He fell about 12 feet landing among a lot of rubbish, and escaped without severe injury although he hurt his breast considerably.

Information Wanted.

U. S. Indian Training School, CHEWAWA, Ore., Oct. 23, 1901.

EDITOR RECORDER, Bandon, Ore.

Dear Sir: I send you Chewawa American, marking an article regarding the death of William Phillips, which I would be glad to have you please publish in your paper.

Mr. Phillips used to live down in your part of the country and as he has died among strangers who do not know where his mother and people live, I thought it may be possible that some of his old friends around Empire and Bandon could give us the desired information.

I will, therefore, thank you very much for publishing this article and enquire if any one knows where Mr. Phillips' parents reside so that we can communicate with them.

Yours very truly,
T. W. POTTER, Supt.

WILLIAM PHILLIPS DEAD.

The Indian Farmer of the Territory, Salt or Bancamoa, Traveler and a Man of Culture Succumbs to Typhoid Fever.

Mr. William Phillips, aged 35 years, and a native of Scotland, died at El Reno yesterday. He came to visit his friend Mr. R. R. Hickox, a United States marshal of the territory, a week ago, and while here he became ill, and after every care and medical attention was given him he succumbed to typhoid fever. His relatives cannot be found, and Mr. Hickox, who has known him for fourteen years, is unable to locate any of his relations. The funeral will take place from J. B. Kerriek's undertaking parlors at 10:30 a. m. to day.

Let a Romantic Life.

Coming to this country from Scotland when a boy, Mr. Phillips became a sailor and visited every English speaking port on the globe. His first service with the government was that of chief clerk in the Indian service at Chewawa, Oregon. After five years service he came East and was engaged on a ranch by T. W. Potter, the present superintendent of the Chewawa Indian School.

One year ago he left this position, took civil service examination and was appointed to the position of Indian farmer.

Mr. Hickox said in speaking of the deceased: "He was a perfect gentleman, possessed a good education, and was an interesting character. For a man of his age he was well informed on every subject."

A telegram was sent to Colonel Randlett the Indian agent, at Anadarko, and, Mr. John P. Blackman of the agency was sent to take charge of the body.—El Reno Daily American.

OREGONIAN: THE FRENCH BARK EUROPE HAS SAILED 20,000 WHEAT IN BALLAST FOR A CARGO OF OREGON MILLS.

She comes from Liverpool, England, by way of Tasmania, and for the trip earns a subsidy of $12,000, which is paid by the French taxpayers. The Oregon wheatgrower does not profit by the operation, as the Europe receives the same freight rate as is paid to the unsubsidized fleet. The French taxpayer does not profit by it, as the vessel does not carry freight to or from a French port. Great is the shipping subsidy scheme!
