R. H. Rosa, is extending the wharf about sixty feet into the river, in front of the saloon cannery and eastward 160 feet. J. K. McLeod has the piling driven for about two-thirds of the wharf and is finishing up that part which lies immediately in front of the cannery building. When finished this addition to Bandon's wharf privileges will be quite conspicuous.

Messrs. Logan and Shipley have finished driving piling for the extension of Dyer's wharf, and are now engaged in driving a solid row of piling on the outer side to ward off drift and strengthen the structure. The wharf extends to deep water its entire length while the extent of surface has been doubled. When the wharf extension now under way is completed Bandon will have abundant wharf room.

Hymeneal Bonds

Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, Miss Elva Leneve, of Bear creek, became Mrs. Walter D. Farrier, at the home of the groom's father, Mr. Geo. Farrier of Bandon.

The marriage ceremony was solemnized by Elder Chas. E. Crumley.

It was a quiet wedding attended only by parents of the bride and groom and a few relatives. The groom and his bride arrayed in garments to suit the occasion, presented a very pleasing picture of fresh young manhood and budding womanhood.

When time with its mutations their heads have silvered o'er may they be able to say that they have fought and won the great battle of life and still stand side by side.

After the ceremony all repaired to the dining room where a table was laden with good things.

A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all as evidenced by the smiles that shone through tears of sympathetic enjoyment in the eyes of those who loved them, and the smiles and blushes of the happy pair. Expressions of sentimental feeling and little bursts of merriment added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrier will reside on the ranch belonging to Mr. George Farrier near Denmark, Curry Co.

The Recorder tenders its congratulations.

Death of Arthur W. Upton.

From Port Orford Tribune.

The last mail from Hongkong brought the sad news of the death of Mr. Arthur W. Upton in that port under circumstances pointing to suicide. Mr. Upton was well known in Manila, and possessed a large circle of friends. He was formerly manager of the Albama Cafe and also of Whaley's Casino. He left here for Japan six weeks ago on business and was returning here, when in a state of despondency brought on by financial difficulties, he ended his own life in Hongkong by shooting himself with a revolver. Deceased arrived in Hongkong from Japan on the 4th inst., on the steamer China on his return to Manila and took room No. 33 at the Honkong hotel. On the 14th inst. the body of deceased was found in Chamberlain Road of the Peak, the hill district of Hongkong, with wounds in his head evidently self-inflicted. There was a bullet hole in the head, and between the legs of deceased was lying a six chambered revolver, with one chamber discharged. The body was removed to the mortuary and was afterwards identified by the chief steward of the steamer China, on which vessel deceased had traveled. The deceased left a letter addressed to a friend in Yokohama which clearly indicated his intention to commit suicide. The letter was found in his room at the hotel, and across it was written the words "Mail for Yokohama." On the letter being opened it was found that deceased had meditated suicide, as he bade "good bye" to the person addressed.

At the inquiry into the circumstances attending his death in Hongkong, Thos. McClellan, chief steward of the China, stated that at noon on 14th inst. he had been shown a dead body which he had recognized as that of a first saloon passenger who had come down from the China from Shanghai. His name was Upton. So far as he knew the deceased had been in Shanghai only about eight days, having arrived there from Yokohama by the Hongkong maru. He was quite sure the deceased was an American. He had several conversations with deceased, but beyond learning that he had been in Manila he could not give any information as to his profession. He had not seen deceased taking any drink during the voyage, nor had he seen deceased in possession of any fire arms. He had last seen him alive in Queen's Road, Hongkong on the 12th inst., at about 2 p. m. when he had simply nodded to him.

Before leaving Manila for Japan Upton had been to Iloilo for some months where he was unsuccessful in business ventures and lost a good deal of money.—Manila Daily Times, May 23, 1900.

STATEMENT BY J. H. UPTON, FATHER OF DECEASED.

In 1894, Arthur joined a fleet of sealing vessels of which the ill fated Mascot, on which Fitty and Solly Anderson found a watery grave was one. I cannot now recall the name of the schooner that Arthur was aboard of. The vessel touched at Honolulu, and then sailed for the Japan coast. She seems to have run into a succession of calms, which delayed her until water ran short. Sighting land in the distance, the vessel ran for it, to find it an island off the Japan coast. She anchored out some distance and sent boats ashore for a supply of water. Meanwhile the tide ran low and the vessel beat herself to pieces on the rocks over which she was anchored. From this island, deceased, with others, made his way to Yokohama. At this city he found employment as book-keeper for an English firm of whole sale liquor dealers.

Soon after the capture of the Philippine Islands, Arthur was sent forward by a syndicate of capitalists with a view to the inauguration of a large sawmill enterprise somewhere in the islands. On reaching Manila, although before war between the Filipinos and Americans was inaugurated, he found conditions of such general chaos existing that nothing could be done.

He wrote us frequently before and after the war broke out, deploring conditions as he found them, and finally that he had to abandon the proposed enterprise that had brought him there.

He had never advised us of his disastrous business ventures at Iloilo. It needs to be explained, that, although the Manila paper was coming to me at the time, why we have remained in ignorance of the awful tragedy for more than a year and a half. It came at a time when health conditions in the family were more or less serious, and fell into the hands of a kind neighbor, who deemed a later period a more fit time to disclose the awful news to us.

After all, there seems to be room for the suspicion that there was foul play in poor Arthur's taking off.

Arthur W. Upton, son of J. H. and C. M. Upton, was born at Salem, Oregon, February 3, 1868, and was therefore just past 32 years of age at the date of his untimely demise. He had passed through all of the common school grades, and had received advanced instructions in private schools. He was taught higher mathematics at our home by a Prof. Sanderson, who said of him that he mastered algebra with more rapidity than any other pupil he had encountered for many years.
