The country is prosperous. The steel trust says that it is making $150,000,000 a year. That certainly indicates very prosperous times for the members of the trust, but it does not argue as much for the common laborers, nor for the small producers.

President Roosevelt is taking the stand that those holding federal offices must not be too frisky in political matters. Doubtless this does not imply that the machine will not call upon them for a part of their earnings when the next national campaign comes on.

And now it is the automobile that is making a record for itself. In France, England, Germany, the United States and elsewhere, it is making its record of death, while disaster to limb and body is of daily record. Last week a man was killed and two women seriously injured at Long Branch. If the run of accidents keep up the machine will soon have an unenviable record.

Portland has awakened to the fact that there is a Coos bay country with an enormous amount of natural wealth around it, and is talking of making an effort to reach out after its trade. Portland has hitherto left South-west Oregon to the tender mercies of San Francisco merchants and it will be surprising if she now scrapes the moss off her back and rustles out for conquest.

If you would be intelligent you must use your faculties. You must think, investigate, search out and strive to be useful. If you are swinging along drifting on the current of time, leading an aimless existence, butterfly like, fitting here and there, with no object in life, no care to cultivate the talents given you, life is a failure to you, and the world will be no better for your having lived in it unless you awake and labor for advancement before you pass out.

Troops are ready to be turned loose on the strikers of Pennsylvania and also in West Virginia. It is deplorable that conditions obtain in which trouble arises between employers and employed, but if the government will use the strong arm of power and force the trusts, which are bringing about insufferable conditions, to a just and equitable business policy, there will be no need to call out troops to quell strikers. The anarchists are the men who are monopolizing the resources of the country and forcing a "do as I want you to or starve" policy upon labor.

Oregon should be more careful and not send too clean a man, nor one with too decided views and too much backbone to the Senate next winter. Such men are out of place, and will not cut much figure in the present U. S. Senate. They are being retired in all the various states that happened to have one of that stripe.—Salem Journal.

The above is significant. If it was meant for sarcasm the cold hard type which left the impress failed in its expression, and if it indicates the true situation and manner of doing business it is time to get back to honest purposes.

Rockefeller and Morgan are the names of two very wealthy Americans. They are monuments each in his way. Rockefeller is a monument of greed and about his only lesson to humanity is taught in his example of monopoly by which he has accumulated his millions by holding up the public. Morgan is of a different, and we might say a higher type. He is probably no less greedy than the other but his capabilities are greater. His methods are no less disastrous to the masses than the other but his example of combination is teaching a lesson that will bring about a greater union of effort than he ever contemplated.

A Case For Cholera Infantum. "Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous child but thy girl. I have recommended this Remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Sees Only His Nose.

From the Evening Telegram. A gilded-nosed mole named Baer, president of one of the coal trust railroads, says that "God in his infinite wisdom has given the property interests of the country" to himself and a few others who "know how to take care of them." That Baer is rich and a trust railroad president indicates that he is not altogether a fool. It is barely possible that he is not altogether a hypocrite. But he is a combination of the two. At any rate, he is a man—and there are others—who needs a hard jolt. He looks at things from his point of view, and chatters like a stuffed magpie about "God," when, reverently be it said, a more reasonable view is that there is no class of men on earth whom "God" must so utterly despise as that of which Baer is a type. "God" did not authorize him and his ilk to rob poorer people; and if there is any truth worth anything in theology, he and they will be punished for their monstrous moral crime. "God" did not give Baer his wealth; most of it he obtained by means worse than plain theft; if he had his just deserts he would be trembling before frowning justice.

As the New York Herald says: "It is absurd to claim that the monopoly of coal, which is an absolute necessity of life in this part of the country, is as purely a private business as that of manufacturing woolen socks. In the first place, ethically and morally, these coal barons have no right to this property (coal mines) at all. 'God' did not give it to them, but to humanity. But complainant humanity did not object to their ownership until they combined with certain railroads to rob both miners and consumers. This the people will not long endure, even if they have to adopt Socialism far enough to take over the coal mines, or to compel their operation and to regulate prices at a basis of decent wages to miners and only a fair profit to the alleged owners. It is the mulish Baers of the country that are bringing about Socialism.

Fortunately, we of the Pacific North-west are not very immediately affected by or interested in this contest; we use but little anthracite coal here and can get along without it altogether; but in a broader sense we are equally interested with Eastern people in this battle and its outcome. It is a notable one, and its results, whichever side wins, will be of widespread and far-reaching significance.

Long Island Defenses Impregnable. Scripps McRae News Association. WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—According to advices from General MacArthur received at the War Department, the shore defenses of Long Island Sound, Newport, New London and Narragansett have been put in such good condition, in anticipation of the coming maneuvers, that if an actual war was impending and if the United Navy co-operated they would be absolutely impregnable to attacks of the combined navies of the world.

Socialism in Colorado. Eugene V. Debbs, writing from Denver to the social Democrat Herald says: "You would be surprised could you realize what a tremendous change has taken place during the past few days. In this city of 200,000 the one prevailing theme, go where you may, is Socialism. The red buttons of our party are in the churches, the stores, the restaurants, and everywhere, stranger meets stranger as comrade, and all are happy over the inspiring outlook. The one danger that must be guarded against is too rapid growth. There may be trouble from this source, but I am confident that we have a sufficient number of comrades scattered over the state who are well grounded to keep the ship true to her course and guide her safely to her destined port.—Peoples Press.

Pointers From the Press. They are near relatives, these two, and like to work together. The tobacco habit leads often directly to the habit of liquor drinking. It is no more possible for an inveterate, poison-soaked cigar fiend who has arrived at the third stage to continue his life and smoking without the aid of whiskey than it would be without the aid of the tobacco itself.—Signs of Times, Oakland, Cal.

The sale of cigars to minors under 16 years of age ought to stop and the war to that end is a holy one.—Williamsport, (Pa.) News. Cigarettes and study, so far as boys are concerned, will not mix.—Chicago (Ill.) Post.

The legislature is again tinkering with the cigar license, and it ought to tinker with it until a bill passes both houses making the manufacture of cigars, or the sale of them, an infraction of the law, punishable by a thousand dollar fine, and ten years in the penitentiary at hard labor instead of a soft soap.—Welton, (O.) Telegram.

School authorities are justified in resorting to every possible device to persuade young boys who are addicted to the cigar to abandon the habit.—Chicago, Record-Herald. A professor at Northwestern University argues that the use of the cigar is responsible for the smokers. Is it not more likely that work minds are responsible for the cigar habit?—Boothbay Harbor (Me.) Register.

Of course many men can smoke cigars without being killed by them, and many men do, but no man ever smoked a cigar without being hurt by it, and no man ever will.—New York Evening Journal. It grows men cannot smoke cigars without injury, and it is conceded by medical authorities that they can not if they inhale the smoke, how much greater must be the harm to undeveloped bodies and growing minds.—Salt Lake City Herald.

The asylums and graveyards are full of cigar wrecks. The boy who surrenders himself to this habit may possibly live to man's age, but he will never be a man.—N. Y. Evening Journal. It is bad enough for a boy to smoke cigars at any time; it is worse for him to strut the streets with a cigar in his mouth, and worse still, for him to go into the presence of a business man on a business errand smoking a cigar.—Richmond Leader.

As with women, so with men—no cigar smoker can use them moderately. The great danger of the habit is it always leads to excess.—N. Y. World. No sight is more beautiful than a group of healthy, happy clean-minded boys at work or at play. No spectacle is more thoroughly disgusting than the cigar-smoking, swearing, impudent boy.—Salt Lake City Herald.

Cigarettes destroy thousands of children annually.—N. Y. Evening Journal. Of all possible places to put a cigar the worst is a boys' mouth.—Henderson, Ky. Gleaner. Interesting Prohibition Facts. On the question of licensing liquor in the State of Connecticut the returns show that this year out of 163 towns 94 declared for no license, and 74 for license, a gain of three for no license. Only three of the largest towns have no license: Stonington, Groton and Plainfield. In Massachusetts out of 175 incorporated cities and towns 125 are under prohibition. The chief license places in that state are Boston, Springfield, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Fall River and New Bedford. In the State of New York the local option features of the liquor tax law apply to the 930 towns. In cities liquor tax certificates are issued on demand. In towns it can only be done after a favorable expression of the votes at the ballot box. In the State of New York in the year 1902 the sale of liquors is prohibited in 285 towns, and permitted in 549. Since 1898 there has been a slight increase in prohibition territory. In that year there were 630 prohibitions and 262 prohibitions.—Christian Advocate.
