A Rooseveltian Epigram.

President Roosevelt is quoted as saying that the meaning of the elections is that "the people have given the Republican party a chance to J. S. Tilton's. 'make good,' '" and in partial explanation of this remark he added that "the prices of commodities had risen more rapidly than the prices of labor, and it would be the business of the Government to reduce the first without lowering the second." This is One Year$2 00 an intimation that the government, in the hands of the Republican party, must sincerely set about the task of curbing the rapacity of monopolistic and law-breaking trusts; and there is also in it a possible intimation that the tariff schedules on trust made articles should be abolished or much reduced. M. A. MAITLAND. He stood with a foot on the threshold, With a cloud on his boyish face, While his city comrade urged him

To enter the gorgeous place. "There's nothing to fear old fellow! It isn't a lion's den; Here waits you a royal welcome

From lips of the bravest men," Twas the old, old voice of the tempter, That sought in the old, old way, To lure with a lying promise

The innocent feet astray. One would think it was Blue Beard's closet. To see how you stare and shrink! I tell you there's nothing to harm you, It's only a game and a drink."

He heard the words with a shudder, "It's only a game and a drink!" And his lips made bold to answer,

"But what would my mother think?" The name that his heart held dearest Had startled a secret spring And forth from the wily tempter He fled like a hunted thing.

Away! till the glare of the city And its gilded halls of sin Were shut from his sense and vision The shadows of night within. way! till his feet had bounded

O'er fields where his childhood trod; Away! in the name of virtue And the strength of his mother's God. What though he was branded "coward"

In the blazoned halls of vice, And banned by his baffled tempter, On that page where the angel keepeth The record of deeds well done That night was the story written

Of a glorious battle won. And he stood by his home in the starlight-All gailtless of sword and shield-A braver and nobler victor Than the hero of bloodiest field!

Magazine Thirty Years Old;-The Christmas (December) Number of THE DELINEATOR is also the Thir tieth Anniversary Number.

To do justice to this number, which for beauty and utility touches the bighest mark, it would be necessary to print the entire list of contents. It is sufficient to state that in it the best modern writers and artists are generously represented. The book contains over 230 pages, with 34 full-page illustrations, of which 20 are in two or more colors. The magnitude of this December number, for which 728 tons of paper and six tons of ink have been used, may be understood from the fact that 91 presses running 14 hours a day, have been required to print it; the binding alone of the edition of 915,000 copies representing be gathered individually by human
