EDITORIAL.

There is room for one more. Not long since the commonwealth of Kansas proceeded to erect a seventy thousand dollar mansion for the governor, and now the citizens have elected a bachelor governor. He should prove equal to the emergency.

Third Assistant Postmaster Madden is after Mail rate changes again. This time he is after the magazines and wants to raise the rate to four cents a pound. The people generally are very well satisfied as to the rates on magazines, but if this would-be postage reformer will correct the abuses of the franking system of postal privileges, he will confer a favor on the American people and deserve to be honored as a real reformer.

President John Mitchell, of the coal miners, presents to the world a character that wins the admiration of all fair minded, open-hearted men and women. He is too big-hearted and great to be disconcerted and show a ruffled temper, to those who would damage the cause he espouses, by petty annoyance. In his evidence before the board of arbitration he has been straight-forward and honest to a degree, and his purpose and worth shine out in illumination when compared with that reflected by the mine operators. On one side there is exhibited a deep desire for the brotherhood of man and the welfare of the human race, while on the other, deep-seated selfishness clouds the scene making more dismal the surrounding gloom.

Now it is J. Pierpont Morgan that is going to leave America and live in England. The land that has afforded him his enormous wealth is no longer desirable as his residence. Perhaps there is too much of the spirit of liberty and independence, with which the atmosphere of this country is impregnated, breathed into its citizens, to soothe the nerves of the Money King. and he looks forward to a time when England will be a better place for slave drivers to dwell in than will be found in the liberty-loving confines of the United States. This country can exist without Morgan, but to leave it after what it has done for him, but proves that his class have no patriotism, no love of country and no God but money. They are a sample of concentrated, impact selfishness.

The following statement of Banker Myron T. Herrick at the Bankers' Convention at New Orleans carries a thought worthy of consideration. "While we boast of an increase of $4,000,000,000 in bank deposits throughout the country in the four years last past, we are not unmindful of the fact that during that period the banks have shown no increase in the amount of real tangible money such as gold, silver and legal tenders. The loans have kept pace with this abnormal growth in deposits. During this period also we have become indebted in the way of temporary loans abroad amounting probably to $200,000,000 or more. Does not this show an undue expansion in bank credits, and an overloading of the money market with debts"? There were also others present who viewed this condition in the same light, and sooner or later there may come a crash that will cause paralysis, to business that will be far-reaching and dire in its effect.

Telegram: In his testimony yesterday Mr. John Mitchell said: We will accept whatever award the commission makes, and that award will have precedence over the laws of the union." There spoke a gentleman and a patriot. What a difference between this declaration and that of some of the operators, who said they would yield nothing and would not abide by any decision of the commission not entirely in their favor.

Oregon Rivers and Harbors.

From the Evening Telegram.

It may be interesting to condense into a brief statement the situation as to Oregon River and harbor improvements, as set forth in the recent report of Colonel Gillespie, the chief of the government Engineers. The amount expended up to June 30, 1902, on the mouth of the Columbia River is $2,202,227. Little work has been done this year, except in preparation for work next Spring. The available balance is $520,209, and $550,000 more is considered necessary for next year's work. On the rivers between Portland and the sea it is estimated $2,796,300 will be needed, of which $225,000 was appropriated last June, and there is an available balance of $249,772. Up to the date mentioned the channel between Portland and Astoria has been increased five feet, and the work to be done during the next two or three years will increase it much more. But little work has been done in two years on the Willamette above Portland, but the channel has been somewhat improved, and there is a balance of $68,070 on hand for further work. On the Columbia between Vancouver and the mouth of the Willamette $107,763 has been expended, and the channel on the bar near the head of Hayden Island has been deepened about one foot. The estimate for the canal and locks between the Dalles and Celilo is $3,969,371, but the prospect for that work is as yet considerably clouded, but earnest work on the part of Oregon, Washington and Idaho members of Congress should get that project under way in a year or two. On the Upper Columbia and Snake Rivers $289.322 has been expended, and the expenditure of $38,000 in two years is contemplated. Work on the mouth of the Coquille has resulted in a straight channel of about six feet, and on the entrance to Coos Bay in a straight channel of from eighteen to twenty-two feet. On the mouth of the Siuslaw $151,700 has been expended, which has aided in making a channel of seven and one-half feet. On Tillamook Bay $72,923 has been expended, with excellent results, and farther work is recommended. On Yaquina Bay $690,000 has been expended, and the work is considered practically completed, making a channel of about thirteen feet.

FOR A BAD COLD.

If you have a bad cold you need a good reliable medicine like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to loosen and relieve it, and to allay the irritation and inflamation of the throat and lungs. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

A Race From Flying Rocks and Lava.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—President Adolph Meyer, of the Champerico Railroad, had a picturesque escape from death near the Guatemalan volcano, Santa Maria. At the first sign of serious danger. Mr. Meyer ordered that his private car be coupled to the most powerful engine in the place, and that the train be held in readiness for departure at a moment's notice. When the rain of stone, sand and ashes became thick and heavy, threatening death to all the inhabitants of the region, he ordered his engineer to run at full speed to Champerico, and he was carried away through the darkness in a wild race with the black storm of destruction. The railroad president, in his private car, outran the danger, and the farther he got away the lighter was the fall of volcanic debris.

The steamer Amassis, which arrived here with the above information, reports that she was boarded at Champerico by agents of the Kosmos and other lines, and that they reported the loss of life was estimated at 10,000 and it was reported that 25 pueblos or Indian villages were ruined. At Champerico there were many refugees desiring to leave the country. The refugees consisted mostly of the families of wealthy planters.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Pronunciation of Coquille.

The Coos Bay News devil, in a poetic strain, gives the pronunciation of Coquille, as follows:

The Spaniard first the river found,
Where shells were scattered all around.
"Co-kee-a, 'river of shells,'" said he,
"Shall be its name in history."

Then a gallant Frenchman came that way,
And saw the shells; so straight away
He says "We'll Frenchify the name,"
And so "Co-keel" he called the same.

But France and Spain were left behind,
When Missouri pioneers did find
This lovely river of the West,
With farming lands and forests blest.

They wouldn't go to France or Spain,
To hunt some hifalutin name,
They said, "Be Gosh," now mark it well,
"We'll call the stream the old Co-quell."

How blue Missouri Jake would feel,
If they wanted him to say Co-keel!
He'd swear he'd see them all in—well
'Fore he'd go back on old Co-quell.

And so Co-quell 'twill always be,
From fountain head to deep, blue sea;
And even out on the ocean swell.
The sealions holler for old Co-quell.

Free Indeed.

JULIA H. JOHNSTON.

"If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." John 8:3.

O ye who are longing for freedom,
Who cry in your desperate need
For speedy release from your bondage,
To the message of mercy give heed.
Whatever is holding you captive,
Unconscious of chains though you be,
There's liberty purchased and promised,
If you will consent to be free.

Your will is not mighty to save you,
No friend may redemption secure
From habits whose fetters are iron,
From the penalty sin must endure.
All effort is painful and fruitless,
And vain as invisible breath
To save from the law you are under,
The "law both of sin and of death."

But hark to the word of your Saviour
That measures your infinite need:
"If the Son shall your liberty give you,
Then shall ye have freedom indeed."
True liberty, royal, abundant,
Which none but Himself can bestow,
And if in His word ye "continue,"
His marvelous "truth ye shall know."

Not freedom from pain does He promise,
From sorrow, temptation, or loss,—
But, freed from their power to hurt you,
Your care you may leave at the cross.
"Redeemed from the curse," for His service
"By the power of His might" you shall be,
If you trust Him "who gave Himself for you
That you might forever be free.

Heredity and Drink.

Far worse than the effect of strong drink upon the man himself is its effect upon his posterity. A writer gives a striking illustration of this. He says:

A specialist in children's diseases, who has for twelve years been carefully noticing the difference between twelve families of drinkers and twelve families of temperate ones, reports that he found the twelve drinking families produced in those years fifty seven children and the temperates sixty-one. Of the drinkers, twenty five children died in the first week of life, as against six on the other side. Among the children of the drinkers were five who were idiots; five, so stunted in growth as to be really dwarfs; five when older, became epileptics; one, a boy, had grave chorea, ending in idiocy; five more were diseased and deformed, and two of the epileptics became by inheritance drinkers. Ten only of the fifty-seven were normal in body and mind. On the part of the sixty one of the temperates, two only showed inherited nervous weakness, while four in later years of childhood had curable nervous diseases, and fifty were in every way sound in body and mind. There could scarcely be a more conclusive demonstration in favor of abstinence from intoxicants on the part of those who assume the responsibility of parentage.—Ram's Horn.

A Sorrowful Tale.

Some time ago the citizens of Toronto were shocked by the accident resulting in the death of an intoxicated man who fell over the stairway railings in the new City Hall, striking his head on the pavement below. An evening paper recently reports the wife of the unfortunate man as being found in a condition of pitiful poverty and almost incredible want. The poor woman had striven hard to earn a livelihood for her little family and seems to have met with poor success. She had with her three little ones, the youngest only a few hours old, and the oldest seven years of age.—The Pioneer.

The Motorman's Story.

He told me that years ago he was accustomed to spend more money for rum than he spent for his family. "But, eighteen years ago," he said: "I opened my eyes to the situation, and changed my habit. Now I own a handsome house, and two fine lots; and my family are happy. You can buy the lots if you wish. In the old days I never went to church, but now, if I miss going, I feel badly all the week." This is a true temperance story.—The Examiner.

I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.

J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cured by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

BEST FOR THE BOWELS

If you haven't a regular, healthy movement of the bowels every day, you're ill or will be. Keep your bowels open, and be well. Force, in the shape of violent physic or pill poison, is dangerous. The smoothest, easiest, most perfect way of keeping the bowels clear and clean is to take
