EDITORIAL.

According to a statement of Lord Lansdowne Venezuela is a scorcher when it comes to revolution. She is reported to have enjoyed the luxury of 104 revolutions in less than 70 years.

A Seattle footpad knocked down a telephone girl and took her week's earnings. The criminal record is down to hardpan in that city and there ought to be a housecleaning instituted. But when we take into consideration the high degree of refined cruelty that shines out by reason of the strike investigating commission, it is no wonder that a common foot pad's work loses luster in the achievement of his purposes.

According to statistics collected by the Department of Labor and confirmed by Dunn's standard tables, since 1897 there has been a rise in prices of commodities necessary to existence of about 35 per c nt while the rise in wages has averaged only 12 per cent. Labor has fared badly in securing equal advantages and were it not for increased opportunities of employment it would have been badly worsted. As conditions now are the laborer employs more time in the acquirement of the same result, steadier employment being the only credit in favor of the present.

It is said of anti trust measures now before the House of Represent atives, that if enacted into laws, trusts would have to go out of business. The report is doubtless sent out for a purpose. There has been no measures proposed that are likely to press down very hard on the trust proposition, and there is nothing that will prove a serious obstacle to the onward march of combination, except a greater merging of interests, When the great wealth producing class pool their interests under the equitable conditions of perfect Socialism, the trusts will go out of business, and not till then.

In Venezuela's difficulty with Great Britain and Germany it is hard to understand where the "Monroe Doctrine" will get off or come in. It is held that Venezuela must pay her obligations, and if the allies conclude that permanent possession of Venezuela is necessary to recompense them for their claim on that unfortunate country, who shall say nay. The trust element always finds a bridge around whatever obstructs progress in that line, and it is possible that the Monroe Doctrine will be encroached upon likewise. Indications point to a time in the future, but what kind of a "time" remains to be seen. One thing is perceptible; great unrest and discord is abroad everywhere.

The arbitration committee is still proceeding with its investigation and terribly shocking are the conditions that are being uncovered through the evidence brought out by the commission. Chattle slavery was very bad, and the deeds committed by brutal masters were horrible to contemplate, but with all its wrongs and grievances, it was but a passing zephyr compared with the keen, piercing, double refined, torture that eminates from private ownership of the resources of life and comfort. This investigation will disclose facts that ought to fire the minds of the whole American people to a degree sufficient to move them forward to the rescue, and to banish conditions which bring such scenes of poverty and suffering, but most likely it will be met by an apathy so sterile that little or nothing may result. It is astonishing how little interest one person takes in the wrongs and sufferings of other persons and especially in those of strangers.

Sunday Welcome: And now that there will be a Hearst and likewise a Coffin in the fifty-eighth congress, if the same kind of practices are indulged in in that congress as were in the fifty-seventh, the members thereof will be fully prepared to take care of their own dead.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

A timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is certain to be needed before the winter is over, and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system. In almost every instance a severe cold may be warded off by taking this remedy freely as soon as the first indication of the cold appears. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no harmful substance. It is pleasant to take—both adults and children like it. Buy it and you will get the best. It always cures. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

An Auto Mobile Track.

Mrs Phoebe Hearst, Colonel Dan Burns and other wealthy people, are building an automobile road from their settlement on McCloud river to Shasta Springs. It will be nineteen miles in length and be on an air line the entire distance, except for a curve a quarter of a mile long at Warmcastle.

The road will cost a great deal of money. As soon as it is finished a line of autos will be placed on the thoroughfare and the machines of the millionaires will be in constant action along the route, The scenery along the road is the grandest to be found anywhere in the state and an auto ride from Shasta Springs to McCloud will be a rare treat.—Ex.

Telegram: There was a coal riot in Boston yesterday. Thousands of half-freezing people were clamoring and fighting for coal. Let them freeze; can't they understand that this Government is run principally for the benefit of the trusts?

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall' Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists 75c Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The Last Blow.

"Hello, Mary! How are you? What! crying again?
Why hang it! you women are always in pain
About something or other. Oh! 'its late,' is it? Late.
And you're 'tired and sick,' and it's long to wait
Up for me all alone. Why what do you think?
Can't a man when inclined to, go out for a drink
Without some squalling woman should sit up all night
A-wasting her temper and wasting the light?
Come, get me some supper. Why, what's that you say?
Neither you nor the children have eaten all day?
Why you squandering jade! dare you sit there and speak,
After spending the money I gave you last week?
Oh! 'it warn't but five dollars, and part I took back.'
Now look you here woman, don't you give me no slack:
There's a devil within me that's ugly tonight
And I might do a deed—come, come, it's all right
If you'll only keep still, but you madden me so
With your whining and tears that I sometimes don't know
How I manage to listen and keep my hands off.
There I know it, with crying you've started your cough,
And now you'll be sick. Well, cry if you will.
It's nothing to me. O, there you are, still
At the same old complaint,—It was'nt so once.
D'ye think I don't know it? Am I such a dunce
That I should forget? Oh, of course I'm to blame,
It is me not my luck, that has dragged us to shame,
And 'it all comes from drink,' Pooh, your very best men,
When inclined to, have taken a drink now and then.
Oh yes but not too much' Well, neither do I;
But, hang it! you know I must drink when I'm dry,
And, besides, it drowns sorrow. What's that? 'I was kind?'
Well so I'd be still if you'd only a mind
To be quiet and decent and keep your tongue still.
I don't want to quarrel I know that you're ill.
And the children are hungry. But what can I do?
Ain't I hungry myself as often as you
Or the children are, either? D'ye think that I'd eat
And look at them starving? But where is the meat
Or the bread I can get? Why it seems you must think
I can get them for nothing. Oh, 'but I can get drink,
There, you're at it again. And what if I can?
When a man is discouraged and knows that he's ran
To the end of his luck, would you have him refuse
A drink if he gets it? Oh, he mustn't abuse
Himself with his drinking. D'ye think that I do?
Don't I do what I can for the children and you?
D'ye think I'm contented to livt in this hole,
Or to dress in these rags? D'ye think I'v'e no soul
Or no pride in me left? I feel bad as you do
When I think of what's come to the children and you.
Why, it seems only yesterday you were as young,
As light-hearted, and handsome, as any among
The girls of this city; and now you are old
And careworn and gray. Why, I thought myself bold
When I first spoke of love and marriage to you.
And how happy I was that first day when I knew
That you loved me in turn! And oh, how I vowed
That I'd care for you, work for you, ever be proud
That I'd won you at last! Why, I'd give up my life
To see you again the sweet, happy young wife
You were in those days. Oh, but what's the use?
Those times won't come back. Temptation was loose,
And it caught me, and held me, and dragged me down low,
And I ain't a man now, I'm a drunkard, I know;
But It's too late to change, while they sell the cursed stuff,
I must have it, and will. I have struggled enough:
But when every corner place has it for sale,
What's the use of my trying? It's only to fail.
I've tried, I've resolved; but my thirst never stops,
If you'd have me keep sober, why shut up the shops.
Oh! you 'couldn't do that.' Well then neither can I:
But unless it is done I must drink till I die.
'Pray?' What good would that do? I tell you God's church
Isn't 'in it' with Satan's. He's left in the lurch;
His churches are few and they are closed on six days,
And the parsons and priests are high toned in their ways.
But the devil's ain't stylish; they're out for the dust,
And they're open and plenty, and its business or 'bust,'
But I'm dry with this talking, I must have a drink.
Only one, Mary, one; I can't sleep a wink
Without taking a nightcap. Oh come none of that.
Don't think that you'll stop me by taking my hat,
Stand aside from the door! Get out of my way!
Don't try to prevent me.—don't do it, I say.
Oh, you will? Now look here! I d nt want a fuss,
You know I was never a quarrelsome cuss;
But a drink I must have, and have it I will.
I've had the blues bad, a d I must try to kill
The down hearted feeling I've had all the day.
Let me go! Let me go! Get out of my way
Or I'll strike you. I'll strike you! You will have it? There!
Take that, curse your soul! I told you take care."

"Well, I've had the drink, Mary, yes, two—yes, three.
If'n! you're lying there yet. Well what's that to me?
You can lay there all night if you feel so disposed:
But I'm going to bed for the barrooms are closed,
And I'm broke. Oh, you're sulky; you won't even speak.
You've got your own temper for all you're so meek.
Come, get on your feet. Do you hear what I say?
I won't have it,—Iwon't let you have your own way!
Get up! You won't answer? Don't temp me again.
You'll be sorry, I tell you, I tell you, well then.
No, I won't, not again. I won't strike you. I say;
But what is the use of your acting this way?
You know it is foolish. Get up!—O my God!
What's this at your head? Why Mary, it's blood!
Whose blood? What's the matter? O my girl!—O my wife!
Won't you speak to me,—answer me, show you've got life?
I was tempted too far. I won't strike you again,
I won't drink won't be angry. Why don't you speak then!
Won't you answer me, dear? Has your love for me fled?
Won't you speak to me Mary?—Oh, my God! she is dead."—MICHAEL LYNCH.

Of Galveston, Texas.

"Wine of Cardui is indeed a blessing to tired women. Having suffered for seven years with weakness and bearing-down pains, and having tried several doctors and different remedies with no success, your Wine of Cardui was the only thing which helped me, and eventually cured me. It seemed to build up the weak parts, strengthen the system and correct irregularities."

By "tired women" Mrs. Adams means nervous women who have disordered menses, falling of the womb, ovarian troubles or any of these ailments that women have. You can cure yourself at home with this great women's remedy, Wine of Cardui. Wine of Cardui has cured thousands of cases which doctors have failed to benefit. Why not begin to get well today? All druggists have $1.00 bottles. For any stomach, liver or bowel disorder Thedford's Black-Draught should be used.
