EDITORIAL

It is coming. Rome had its Black Friday when 1,800 men owned the known world. Sixteen men are reputed to own half the wealth of the United States. Isn't it time to awake?

Bankers are howling now for an emergency currency. You probably wonder why, as they already have practically all the currency in their hands. The reason will be found, most likely, in this: That while bankers pay no interest they do loan and the emergency fund would prove convenient in case of many depositors wishing to withdraw their money. A rubber attachment will be a convenience in such cases.

Rockefeller has made another contribution. This time the Young Men's Christian Association of Brooklyn, N. Y. is the recipient of the oil king's loot to the extent of $100,000. Rockefeller is spiking the Christian grays by making Christian associations accessory to his robbing policy by acceptance of his bribes. A shrewd man is the big oil dealer, and he is very likely paving the way for another cent or two per gallon rise on kerosene.

The coal strike and its attendant scarcity of fuel, the suffering and the opportunity afforded for greedy corporations and individuals to profit at the expense of human agony, is stirring up the public mind to a greater degree than has hitherto been reached. To such extent has this been done that the authorities in many places have taken initiatory steps looking toward a correction of some of the corporate abuses and as the time has come when delay and whitewash proceedings are becoming dangerous elements to daily with, it is desirable that proceedings be pushed vigorously until justice reigns, and the greedy corporants are compelled to deal justly.

Telegram: According to their stories neither the mine operators, nor the coal railroads, nor the consignees, are responsible for the scarcity of coal in Eastern cities and the sharp advance in price. It is always so, these people do nothing to raise the price, and know nothing about it. They operate through somebody not known, or who is not responsible, or won't tell. To listen to these operators and carriers and manipulators, one would suppose they were paragons of innocence, and the incarnation of the Golden Rule applied to business.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.
Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, of Ferns Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and sores, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Telegram: The Pennsylvania Railroad is a monster concern. It extends to Boston in one direction, to Baltimore and Washington, with connections beyond, in another, and west to Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis. During the past few years it has acquired virtual control of its immediate rivals, the Baltimore & Ohio, and the Norfolk & Western. It has now under advisement a plan to increase its capitalization from $228,420,000 to $315,000,000, the increase not to be "water," but money paid in and par value stock. The intention is to extend the system in the South, and $100,000,000 will be required to tunnel under the Hudson, Manhattan Island and East River.

Croup.
The peculiar cough which indicates croup, is usually well known to the mothers of croupy children. No time should be lost in the treatment of it, and for this purpose no medicine has received more universal approval than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Do not waste valuable time in experimenting with untried remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended, but give this medicine as directed and all symptoms of croup will quickly disappear. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

A Haughty Protest.
Dr. John Bascom, former president of the University of Wisconsin, in a recent address to the Wisconsin Teachers Association at Milwaukee said:

"No money that is obtained at the expense of the people can ever be used for the good of the people. There are no trusts in the intellectual world, and no corners in the kingdom of heaven. I doubt the power of any university or college or theological seminary to turn money that has been made at the expense of the community into the welfare of the community. The taint of a bad temper will cling to it, will lurk in it like a flavor in an unclean infusion."

Dr. Bascom is an old fashioned New England man who always thinks straight and speaks plain, and he further said that he had reference to the Chicago University and its gifts from John D. Rockefeller. Dr. Bascom holds that when a college accepts money which has been gained in direct defiance of the law it vitiates its influence in the minds of the students. The money of Rockefeller is illegotten at the direct expense of the people. The practices of the Standard Oil Company are directly contrary to law, both ethical and statutory, and "the college which accepts the profits from such practices accepts a portion at least of the responsibility for the act whereby it was gained." The Springfield Republican says that the great wealth of Mr. Carnegie, another large giver to colleges, has not been wholly derived from tariff protection; that Mr. Carnegie used to enjoy special railroad favors, such as formed a considerable part of the illegitimate basis of Mr. Rockefeller's fortune.

No matter whether Professor Bascom's arrow hits one or both of these multi-millionaires, it was well shot and has taken effect in Mr. Rockefeller's university at Chicago. The galled jade winces; the wounded bird flutters. These professors and various officials of the Chicago University evidently feel that the blow struck by this old man eloquent, Dr. Bascom, will be sure to echo around the whole educational world of the country. Dr. Bascom as an educator and political economist stands in the front rank, and a man of his age and eminence cannot be whistled down the wind as a reckless flippant critic.

The criticism of Dr. Bascom is both just and timely, for the colleges of our country are showing altogether too much obsequiousness to very rich men who are credited with ill-gotten wealth. It may not be in good taste for a college to hasten to confer degrees upon leading politicians and popular military heroes, but it is not half so disreputable as this worship of rich men by colleges to whose sack the millionaire has contributed liberally of his shekels. Sir Robert Walpole boasted that every man in the British Parliament of George II's day had his price. It begins to look as if the multi-millionaire could say that everything in America had its price. Jay Gould found out that the pulpit had its price; if Rockefeller should die tomorrow not a pulpit in the land that had received any of his "pork" would refuse to whitewash him; the multi-millionaire has found out that not only churches, but colleges, have their price. The dirty finger of King Midas tarnishes everything in our American life.

Professor Bascom indignantly tells these colleges that if they share the swag they cannot escape some of the infamy that attaches to the theft, and he is right. Rockefeller and Carnegie are cunning in their gifts. They know that gifts to colleges and churches and town libraries spike some of the influential batteries of public opinion. They are buying falsonic panegyrics and fatulent puffery for today and purchasing masses for their souls tomorrow. There is no sort of doubt but that the pulpit and college have both become more notably servile to very rich men than they were fifty years ago, and Professor Bascom has done his day and generation a service in sharply rebuking it. Men of learning and the institutions they represented used to respect themselves as entirely superior to great riches. The "poor scholar" felt rich in his own right of high intelligence, but the college today cringes crip in hand to illegotten wealth. — Sunday Oregonian.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Timber Land, Act June 3, 1878.
UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, ROSEBURG, OREGON, JANUARY 12, 1903.
Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," as extended to all the Public Land States by act of August 4, 1892, William A. Doak, of Coos County, Oregon, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement No. 4284, for the purchase of the SE 1/4 of NE 1/4 and SW 1/4 of Section No. 9 in Township No. 29 S., Range No. 14 W., and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber or stone than for agricultural purposes and to establish his claim to said land before L. H. Hazard, County Clerk of Coos County, Oregon, on Tuesday, the 17th day of February, 1903.
He names as witnesses: A. E. Haddell, of Parkersburg, Oregon; W. D. Mack, of Parkersburg, Oregon; R. H. Ross, of Bandon, Oregon.
Any and all persons claiming adversely the above described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 17th day of February, 1903.

W. G. T. U. COLUMN.
The next W. G. T. U. meeting takes place Tuesday, at 2:30 P. M. at the M. E. Church.

Mrs. Mary Sexton and Her Children the product of a Home by Whiskey.

Mrs. Mary Sexton and her three little girls, who were found in a condition of starvation in a tenement house at No. 312 Second street, Hoboken, are now in the almshouse there. They had been abandoned three weeks ago by the husband and father, James Sexton, a longshoreman, aged forty-four years. He made good wages, but spent his money in whiskey, and allowed his family to starve. The two rooms, when visited by an American reporter, were the typical drunkard's home. Piece by piece every household article had been sold. The bed gone before the unannounced guardian of the family had taken to the streets and saloons.

Mother and children had been sleeping on the bare floor without blankets since that time. The family did not own a stove, and evenings were passed without lights. A family in the tenement reported to the police that means and agonized weeping were heard in the Sexton rooms. The chief sent Patrolman Borrone and Dr. Stack to the rescue, and a condition of squalor almost beyond belief was discovered. The children, unable to walk, were sitting or lying on the floor in various parts of the room.

"The woman was delirious from hunger," said Dr. Stack, at his residence, No. 212 Garden street, Hoboken. "The children were wasted to skin and bones and would have succumbed before another day passed. Everything had been pawned, even the blankets. My heart bled for the children. They were two, four and six years, respectively. I sent the mother and three little girls to the matron at police headquarters, and they were all committed to the almshouse. The attack of Mrs. Sexton meant nothing. The poor woman was quite irresponsible. She was not possessed of vitality enough to do me injury. She is a sober and industrious woman, but quite unable to work."

Officer Borrone arrested James Sexton in a saloon and, in a highly intoxicated condition, locked him up. Seven dollars were found in his clothes. On the complaint of Poor Master Barrack he was sent to the Penitentiary for nine months.

Is It Only Bluff?
WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The chairman of the judiciary committee of the House today introduced the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the committee on judiciary is authorized and hereby directed to investigate and report to this House, with all convenient speed the opinion of that committee as to the power of Congress to declare that a necessity has arisen for taking possession of all coal, coal beds and coal mines in the United States and all lines of transportation, agencies, instruments and vehicles of commerce necessary for the transportation of coal, and if in the opinion of that committee the power exists and a necessity for the exercise of such power has arisen, that the committee forthwith report to this House a bill declaring the necessity, providing fully and in detail the occasions, modes, conditions and agencies for said appropriation that will fully and completely exhaust the power of Congress in that regard."

Every Bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Warranted.
We guarantee every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and I will refund the money to anyone who is not satisfied after using two-thirds of the contents. This is the best remedy in the world for la grippe, coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is pleasant and safe to take. It prevents any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia. UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, ROSEBURG, OREGON, Dec. 19, 1902.
Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the States of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," as extended to all the Public Land States by act of August 4, 1892, William A. Doak, of Parkersburg, County of Coos, State of Oregon, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement No. 4209, for the purchase of the SE 1/4 of SW 1/4, SW 1/4 of SW 1/4, Section No. 25, in Township No. 29 S., Range number 14 West, and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber or stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land before L. H. Hazard, County Clerk of Coos County, Oregon, on Tuesday, the 17th day of February, 1903.
He names as witnesses: Edward Ohman, of Parkersburg, Oregon; W. D. Mack, of Parkersburg, Oregon; A. E. Haddell, of Parkersburg, Oregon; J. A. Doak, of Parkersburg, Oregon.
Any and all persons claiming adversely the above described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 17th day of February, 1903.
J. T. BARROWS, Register.
