EDITORIAL.

The Eastern states are hardly out of one trouble before another is upon them. A short time ago it was rain and flood and great was the destruction to life and property. Now it is heat and many deaths and pro-tensions are the result. Extreme heat is one of the scourges that Oregon has been free from so far, as it is not subject to great heat or to intense cold. Its climate is a happy medium.

There is a Minneapolis mayor in the penitentiary for taking bribes, and in St. Louis the operation of the law has been active for months trying to fathom the fullness of the iniquity of the law makers, of that city, and from other places comes the noisome scent of the satanic influence that pervades the atmosphere of law making bodies, in other places, so that it begins to appear that the law making machinery is getting into a condition where it does out its product to the highest bidder.

There is a degree of dishonesty that has been ingrafted into the business structure, and that is pervading law-making bodies in many instances, which prognosticates dire conditions in the future. The influence of greed when uncontrolled, knows no bounds and there is no station along life's journey save dissolution or death, where it ends, the thoroughly selfish disposition being satisfied with nothing short of the whole of wealth. On the other hand, and among those who are less tinctured with greed, and are more given to reason, there is a degree of fairness budding out that in time, and perhaps only a short time, will array squarely in opposition against the first mentioned condition, and then there will be a battle royal to disclose whether wrong or right shall prevail. It is time to live justly.

Some one has figured it out that 890 lives lost by floods and cloud-bursts, 65,000 people left homeless, and property of the value of $36,000,000 destroyed, is the record of Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Georgia, South Carolina and Oregon in four weeks.

G. A. R. Encampment Souvenir.

For the National Encampment of the Grand Army to be held at San Francisco, Cal., from August 17th to August 24th, the committee has issued a poster which is bound to attract the attention and elicit admiration from all lovers of the artistic in poster simplicity. The poster is 24 by 38 inches, printed in bright, vivid colors, symbol of bright, sunny California welcoming to the shores of the Pacific by the Golden Gate the old Grand Army Veterans, and is peculiarly expressive of the occasion. The artists has created and produced an atmosphere upon the paper that appeals not alone to the Veterans of the Grand Army but to the aesthetic sentiment of all poster lovers. It portrays an aged member of the Grand Army of the Republic, with flag in hand, being greeted by California, a beautifully drawn figure of a typical California maiden, holding in her arms and entwined in her tresses showers of golden poppies—the California State flower. In the distance is seen the Golden Gate and a sunlit stretch of San Francisco's placid bay.

It is rare, indeed, that such a subject is handled with the delicacy of touch and so much exquisite sentiment. It was intended as a poster only, and as such it is so absolute a success that no poster collection will be complete without it. The committee has reserved a sufficient number of copies, which may be had on application at 50 cents each, the money thus realized to be applied in entertaining the Veterans during the encampment.

Grand Hotel, San Francisco.

From Preacher to Planerman

From the Portland Telegram.
Reverend Thomas C. Wiswell, for several years pastor of a Congregational church in Seattle, said in the dispatches to be the most "aristocratic" church there, has resigned his pastorate, and taken up his former occupation of a planerman in a sawmill. Mr. Wiswell's church is called the University Congregational Church, because it has been the chief and favorite place of worship of the teachers and students of the University of Washington. He is an educated and eloquent man, and his reasons for this step, keeping in mind the fact just stated, may be briefly summarized as follows: He finds that the community has been subjected to "petty and foolish sectarian segregation," ostensibly to protect the students from the "godless" influence of the university teachers, but really to prevent them from accepting truths taught in that institution. He has been forced to recognize his own "parasitic relation to the community and his congregation," and has remained at his post to do what he might in that place to protect the young people from the "withering prejudices inculcated by sectarian instruction, from the delusions of a false and degrading theology, and from the blighting influence of ecclesiastical and commercial immorality." He charges that the church "no longer supports and expresses the purposes and ideas of the Master," and that denominationalism is "conducive to moral stagnation and intellectual barrenness." He could no longer represent a denomination and preach a religion in which he himself could not believe. "I cannot longer give my support to the half hearted and quarrelsome petty fighting of the sects, because organized Christianity seems no longer to be a life struggle of the poor after God and truth, but a pastime of the rich and well-to-do who would conserve the interests of Mammon in the name of the Father of Justice and Love."

Important News Notes

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

The next W. C. T. U. meeting takes place Tuesday, at 2:30, P. M., at the M. E. Church.

Whose Boy?

We suspect that the erratic Carrie Nation, as she began smashing saloons in the West, must have heard of the story of General Booth's little girl, who wanted to stop her brother in his destruction of birds. One night she prayed, "O Lord, don't let the birds get into Johnnie's trap in the garden. I know they won't! They can't! Amoo!"

"Polly," said her mother, "what makes you so certain?"

"Why, 'cause I went in the garden and smashed the trap!"

The other day I was in a large Western city in a prohibition state, a state in which I had never seen an open saloon until the evening of that day. As we transferred from one electric car to another we waited at the corner of two business streets, and I saw one soldier boy, about 25 years of age, try to induce another soldier boy, about 18—one of the sweetest faced lads I ever saw—to enter an open saloon. The older boy at last went in at the open door. The younger paced back and forth, back and forth, on the sidewalk, evidently struggling with temptation.

We were on our return, with our hostess, from a visit at the Soldiers' Home, where the governor of the state had entertained several hundred of the wives, mothers and sisters in our state who had been in the city at a great federation. At this Soldiers' Home are about three thousand men, many with faces seamed and scarred from battles without and battles within, and we knew what the "open saloon" had done for the soldier of the past, and the heart ached for what it might do for the soldier of the present.

Whose boy was this handsome soldier lad struggling with temptation? The older boy who entered the saloon, the four drunken young soldiers who were in the car going out to the fort, did not make the heart ache as did this young lad who said to one of our party, "I have a mother," and yet was not strong enough to resist temptation, for after a time, he entered the open door, passed across the room, and was hidden from sight by the swinging screens.

It is well to speak. It is well to pray—to pray mightily. But how can we, like Polly, be sure our prayers are answered unless, like her, we "smash the trap?"

The liquor traffic is the old story of Virgil's Laccoon; it takes father and sons in its embrace. Mrs. C. F. WILDER.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "It got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me."—For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

ers and students of the University of Washington. So far this arraignment has called forth no public response from the other ministers of Seattle; they seem to have agreed together to ignore it; but privately no doubt they have plenty of criticism ready for their recent co-worker in the ministry. One can never judge intelligently of such an incident without knowing the man and the attendant or prompting circumstances; but considered as a general proposition, they are not few who will be inclined to the opinion that Mr. Wiswell's explanation does not wholly ignore truth.

He is to be commended, at least, for going to work in a planing mill, instead of running about the country trying to make people believe that he has made a new and great discovery. He is said to have done much good as a preacher; but possibly he can do more as a planerman. Who can tell?

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb, Vice-President Women's Democratic Club of Northern Ohio, credits the change of life which was brought about by the use of Cardui. "I noticed Wine of Cardui and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax." Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not "wear off." They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell $1 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
