EDITORIAL.

Conditions are attaining in the Orient of a startling nature, and incidents of shocking barbarity are daily reported.

When we view the conditions which have obtained in affairs not in our own country only, but in other lands, we can but admit that fraud is rife and crime abundant.

A Dangerous Business
One of the things that interests the public and that is claiming the attention of Congress and should be passed on by that body with a view to the safety of human life and the preservation and safety of our coast shipping and commerce.

These rafts are liable to meet with storms and be lost, or to go to pieces at any time, and the floating debris to become a menace to passing vessels.

Last year two rafts aggregating sixteen million feet of lumber were towed into San Francisco and this year has seen four landed there while more are to follow.

As a derelict these rafts are very dangerous as they do not afford shelter for a crew who might keep out proper signals and give approaching vessels warning of their presence.

The foregoing touches one side of the question and but lightly at that. Shippers have a kick coming not only because of the danger to life and property, but because of the loss to shipping that is caused by towing rafts.

An effort was made in the last Congress to pass a prohibitory measure, and the bill passed the House, but died in the Senate.

Eight hour laws are ignored by those tireless little workers—Dr. King's New Life Pills. Millions are always at work, night and day.

seats is very much interested in the matter and will make a vigorous fight against the ocean raft business.

Captain Roger, who has charge of the Coast Geodetic Survey, and Captain Bolles, U. S. Inspector of steam vessels, and many other persons, who are in a position to know, maintain and agree in this: "That it is extremely unwise to expose the ocean commerce to the danger of a collision with one of these rafts."

It is claimed that these rafts soon go ashore when lost, but this is not a fact, for it has been demonstrated that they remain on the ocean for an indefinite period, unless picked up by a passing vessel, or one sent in search of the derelict.

This question is of vital interest to Oregon lumbermen, as regards mill owners, timber owners, and laborers, and they should stand together and make their wants known.

Wake up and stand for your interest, for while we are not in love with the competitive system, we recognize the fact, that while it remains, we must make the best of it.

A New Theory of Food.

By a series of computations amazing in their results no less than in their simplicity, a writer in the Medical Journal has shown why the lean man eats more in proportion to his weight than the fat man; as a corollary a good and sufficient reason is given why a child is always hungry.

The effects of this formula are far reaching. When the hobbled boy youth displays an appetite that shames the pantry and causes pies, tarts, cakes, sweets, cookies and candy to disappear without apparent increase of flesh, the fond mother will no longer fear worms, and struggle with vile medicines to oust a parasite.

In due season, no doubt, the up-to-date restaurant will be provided with measuring machines, and the customer will be quickly reassured as to the number of courses required to sate his ravenous appetite.

Yet there are some grave disadvantages. It is quite probable that when Mr. Jinks offers his plate for a second helping, the landlady may refer to her tabulated list and prove to Mr. Jinks' confusion that he is not entitled to more of the chicken.

Progress in its triumphant march crushes the weak under the bipotamus foot of science.—Telegram.

Tragedy Averted.
"Just in the nick of time our little boy was saved," writes Mrs. W. Watkins of Pleasant City, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played sad havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Doctors treated him, but he grew worse every day. At length we tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was saved. He's now sound and well." Every body ought to know, it's the only sure cure for Coughs, Colds and all Lung diseases. Guaranteed by C.Y. Lowe Druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

THE KINGDOM OF HOPE.

Dark is the night, and fitfully, drearily
Rushes the wind like the waves of the sea;
Little care I, as here I sing cheerily,
Wife at my side and baby on knee;
King, king, crown me the king;
Home is the kingdom, and love is the king.

Lost, Strayed or Stolen.
"Missing—Last Sunday, some families from church."
"Stolen—Several hours from the Lord's Day, by a number of people of different ages, dressed in their Sunday clothes."

HER WAYWARD DAYS OVER.
Violent Street, aged 17, will return to her home to die.

Brought by the life she had been leading to the brink of the grave, Violet Street, the 17-year-old Spokane girl, who left her home to enjoy a year of dangerous frolic in Portland, came before Municipal Judge Hogue yesterday morning, guilty of a crime which has saddened her aged parents.

The girl has been under the care of Police Matron Simmons for several days, and the disease has been delayed long enough for her to receive a discharge by the court. Her father will reach the city in a day or two, and the girl, who the doctors say, cannot live but a few weeks, will be taken to her home. Repeatedly her parents have written to her, beseeching with all the love of a father and mother, to return to them.

"I have been troubled with my stomach for the past four years," says D. L. Beach, of Clover Hook Farm, Greenfield, Mass. "A few days ago I was induced to buy a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. I have taken part of them and feel a great deal better." If you have any trouble with your stomach try a box of these Tablets. You are certain to be pleased with the result. Price 25 cents. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

An Irishman's Will.

In the name of God, Amen! I, Timothy Delona, of Barrydownerry, in the County of Clare, farmer, being sick and weak in my legs, but of sound head and warm heart; Glory be to God!—do make the first and last will and testament, in and to the following effect: I give my soul to God, when it pleases him to take it; sure no thanks to me, for I can't help it then; and my body to be buried in the ground at Barrydownerry Chapel, where all my kith an' kin that have gone before me, an' those that live after, belonging to me, are buried; pace to their ashes, and may the sod rest lightly over their bones. Bury me near my godfather, Felix O'Flaherty, betwixt and between him and my father and mother, who lie separate altogether, at the other side of the chapel yard. I have the bit of ground, containing ten acres—rare old Irish acres—to me eldest son Tim, after the death of his mother, if she survives him. My daughter Mary and her husband Paddy O'Ragan are to get the whit soil that's going to have twelve black bonifs. Teddy, my second boy that was killed in the war of America, might have got his pick of the poultry, but as he is gone, I'll leave them to his wife, who died a wake before him; I bequeath to all mankind fresh air of heaven, all the fishes of the sea they can take, and all the birds of the air they can shoot; I leave to them the sun, moon and stars. I leave to Peter Rafferty a pint of ful-poten I can't finish, and may God be merciful to him!—Dad Noel Record.
