EDITORIAL

War rumors have all blown over fill the next breeze springs up.

Russia is coming to the fore very rapidly, and her citizens are up with the times, and can do a first-class hold up, equal to the best.

The Diamond trust has advanced the price of diamonds, but that does not worry the average country newspaper man. They are not likely to invest.

There must be a fresh breeze somewhere, and now that interest is flagging in the Oriental warcloud, the Kethums is coming into prominence to supply the deficiency, and Nicaragua and Guatemala will figure on the scoreboard for first place in the bel-ligerents column.

Now it seems that the Ship building trust was a scheme perfected and brought into operation for the purpose of letting a few financial lords unload a lot of worthless securities upon men who had faith in the honesty of the schemers. Morgan has shown himself a mighty factor in the formation of gigantic business propositions, but in the Ship building trust, he seems to have brought together a mass of corruption that will leave a blighting stench exude from his reputation as long as he lives. Those bitten will lose confidence in his honesty.

The Ship Combine is wrecked, and Schwab, the steel magnate, is charged with having been its wrecker, by withholding the Bethlehem Company's profits. Competition is competition, whether it is operated by trust propositions or smaller concerns, and as but one institution can eventually thrive and stand on the apex of success, some must take place lower down the scale of commercial success.

In a system founded upon private ownership, the inevitable result cannot but be the exaltation of the very few, and the poverty stricken condition of the many. The United States will be a fruitful field to show up the inequality that will obtain under this perverse system. Even the wreckers get wrecked.

Firm Crop Almost Paid for Clearing.

In a conversation with Elbert Dyer one day this week, he gave out the following experience he had in clearing a sore of land, planting, cultivating, and harvesting the crop.

The spot cleared was at his mill some three or four miles south of town, is situated on the huckleberry flat, and is not considered a first-class article of land by any means, but still it appears to have some fertility about it according to report.

The land, while not the worst to clear and get under a state of cultivation, cost fifty dollars to get ready for the plow. Then came the plowing, seeding, cultivating and harvesting, which cost thirty dollars more, making eighty dollars expended in clearing and raising the crop.

The acre of land was planted in potatoes, and the crop when harvested was worth seventy-five dollars, which gave a return of all the money expended on the lot, except five dollars.

If next year's crop is of equal value to the one raised this year, the land will have paid for clearing, seeding and cultivating, in two years, besides giving a profit above all expense, of $45.

It pays to clear up land, and great improvement can be made in this county by getting the land in condition to yield its increase. Stock pays well, and there is no country better adapted to dairying than the coast counties of Oregon.

Cause of Lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exists plentifully in street dirt. It is inactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded, the germ is roused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroyed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely as soon as the injury is received. Pain Balm is an anti-septic, and causes cuts, bruises and like injuries to heal without maturation and in one third the time required by the usual treatment. It is for sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist.

A Huge Photograph.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—A photograph eight feet high by twenty five feet long has been finished in this city for use at Madison Square Garden, New York. The picture, which is said to be the largest photograph on record, shows Zion City, presenting every house, street and tree in the radius of two square miles. It is said to have required an especially constructed tower 161 feet high to take the view.

Progressive Religious Thought.

In our orthodox exchanges we find evidence of an uneasy feeling concerning revivals. Judging by the past a revival of religion is now due. It ought to come, just as a revival of business follows a period of stagnation. The revival of religion is due. The churches need it, business needs it, in social affairs it is needed, in the life of the republic it is demanded. There is a sore need felt everywhere of an increase of the impulses which may properly be described as religious. But the old-fashioned revival has suddenly become antiquated and impossible to intelligent men. A revival of religion is needed; it must come, and it will come, just as soon as the object of it is the increase of religion pure and undefiled as a motive in the common life of the people. It must be unsectarian, not dogmatic; and above all things it must be unselfish.—The Christian Register.

Hearst to Start a Paper at Portland.

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Since the announcement that William Randolph Hearst intends to start a daily paper in Los Angeles, and that Managing Editor Roberts is there now completing arrangements, it is given out from a reliable source that the great publisher's next move will be to start a morning paper in Portland, Oregon, in opposition to the Oregonian. The source of information is not divulged at this time, but it is an assumed fact that the scheme has been fully decided upon, and that public announcement will be made in the near future.

It is known here that an agent of Mr. Hearst visited Portland a month ago, and for two weeks devoted himself to covering the situation, and then reported his favorable impression of the field to Mr. Hearst in New York City. Portland has long been under the eye of Hearst as the best distributing point for the great Northwest country.

Adams' Stink Bug.

E. A. Adams has written to A. B. Cordley, of the Department of Zoology, of the State Agricultural School at Corvallis, about the stink bug which has found its way into so many houses in Myrtle Point this summer.

The bug is about the size of a fly, and the odor which they emit is so loud that the festive stink sinks into insubordination when compared with this little insect. Mr. Cordley writes as follows to Mr. Adams:

"In answer to your query will state that the little insect which you send is a carabid beetle, known as Nomis Pygmaeus. So far as I know it has no common name. I suppose the odor is so disagreeable that it is impossible to find one that would be satisfactory. Practically nothing is known regarding the habits of the insect, but it is inferred that it breeds in moist places. The disagreeable odor which you mention is supposed to be thrown off for protection whenever the insect is threatened with danger. It is quite common whenever this odor is noticed to find one of the insects entrapped in a spiderweb, and one means of obviating the disagreeable phase of the case, which has been recommended, is to destroy all spiderwebs about the premises. So far as I know no practical means of eradicating the pest can be suggested, as I stated before nothing is known regarding its habits."—Enterprise.

The Curry County Recorder says.

"Rumor has it that R. D. Home will again fence in his tide lands in the vicinity of the mouth of Rogue River. Fence posts transported from Wedderburn to this side of the river, bears evidence of this in no uncertain way.

CHILDREN OF THE MILLS.

Oh, the silence of the children in the sunny south-to-day!

It is sadder than the cry of fettered slaves. Loos and listen and you will hear the roaring of the mill.

And the sighing of the wind in open graves.

But the voices of the children—they are still.

Oh, the roaring of the mill, of the mill! They no longer shout and gambol in the blossoms laden fields.

And their laughter does not echo down the street.

They have gone across the hills; they are working in the mills.

Oh, the tired little hands and aching feet; And the weary, dreary life that stunts and kills!

Oh, the roaring of the mills, of the mills! All the pleasures known to childhood are but tales of fairyland!

What to them are singing birds and running streams?

For the rattle of the mill seems an echo of the mill.

And they see but flying spindles in their dreams.

Life is one in summer's heat or winter's chill.

Oh, the roaring of the mill, of the mill. In this boasted land of freedom, they are hounded by slaves.

And the busy world goes on and does not heed.

They are driven to the mill; just to gild, and over all!

Bursting coffers of the mighty monarch, Greece.

When they perish, we are told it is God's will.

Oh, the roaring of the mill, of the mill. Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A BARREL OF WHISKY.

A barrel of whisky—what's that but a barrel of headaches, barrel of woes; Barrel of cures, barrel of blows?

Barrel of tears from a world-weary wife, Barrel of sorrows, barrel of strife.

Barrel of quarrels—ending some life, Barrel of much unavailing regret,

Barrel of cares—barrel of debt, Barrel of crime, barrel of pain,

Barrel of hopes, ever blasted and vain! Barrel of falsehood, deception, and lies.

Barrel of man's law's strictness—the tie! Barrel of "good resolutions" 'ere given,

Barrel from which many folks take a fill. Barrel of blasting—liquid "hell-fire,"

Barrel of stuff that some say will inspire, Barrel of poverty, ruin, and blight,

Barrel of terror—growing each night, Barrel of hunger, barrel of groans,

Barrel of orphan's piteous wails, Barrel of misery—terrible stuff,

Barrel to play on the world Satan's "buff," Barrel of "politics" used for home's pope;

Barrel that's made of so many a "top" Barrel of "good resolutions" 'ere given,

Barrel that's made, oh, so many, before, Barrel that heart rending tales could tell—

Barrel that's sent so many to "hell!" Barrel—of bait used in old Satan's traps,

Barrel, the cause of so many misdeeds; Barrel of wickedness, barrel of vice,

Barrel that kills where'er it may go; Barrel of "snakes" going down to each gulf,

Barrel of death—blast oh, blast! Barrel of which many millions have drunk,

Barrel that so many fortunes has sunk, Barrel that's turned many days into night,

Barrel that's kept many out of God's light, Barrel that's made many a brave of good men,

Barrel deceiving again and again, Barrel that's been to religion a hindrance,

Barrel—the cause of how many a fight! "Dirty-work" barrel, strong-smelling barrel,

Blasting old barrel—get out of our sight! —Moses H. Hydekand.

A Humiliating Record.

This is the way an exchange utters its indictment against the drinking habit of England, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales: "The United Kingdom last year spent for alcoholic drinks alone, $900,000,000, which is equal to the total rental of all lands and houses in those islands; it is twice as much as was spent on bread, ten times as much as was spent on education, and eighty times as much as the Christians of the United Kingdom spent on foreign missions." Such a record should cover the people of the United Kingdom with humiliation; but it is not any worse than that of our own fair land.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration, it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly, and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist.

THE FORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR CONSTIPATION. Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than vital stagnation or death if not relieved. If every constipated sufferer could realize that he is allowing poisonous bile to remain in his system, he would soon get relief. Constipation invites all kind of contagion, Headaches, biliousness, colds and many other ailments disappear when constipated bowels are relieved. The Ford's Black-Draught thoroughly cleans out the bowels in an easy and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics.

Be sure that you get the original The Ford's Black-Draught, made by The Chattanooga Medicine Co. Sold by all druggists in 25 cent and $1.00 packages.
