The Halloweeners.

There was considerable mischief done here on Halloween night, so much so that some of our citizens remarked "that the devil must have had a birthday."

Almost any person will enjoy a Halloween trick even though it is at their own expense; but when it comes to destruction of property, it is time to draw the line.

There is one class here who have on various occasions upset outhouses, and as they have shown themselves to be of a very low standard of morality, they should be looked after carefully, and taught to respect the law, since they have no respect for themselves.

There were several outhouses upset, one wagon run off and taken to pieces, and some of the party thrown where the tide could reach them, and a stone was thrown through J. B. Marshall's window, which also broke a show case.

There seemed to be a general turnout on this occasion, and a Halloween party in Swift's Hall proved quite an attraction and fairly successful, while a social call on Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stanchiff, by a number of friends, made up a pleasant evening.

Another party, composed of twenty-four women and girls, hitched on to the butcher's delivery wagon, made quite a team, and gave Mr. Anderson considerable trouble in locating his wagon; but perhaps the best joke was played on S. D. Barrows, who had taken his wagon away and hidden it to secure immunity from the tricksters, but on awakening in the morning, imagine his surprise to find his wagon, right-side-up-with-care, standing in the street in front of his gate.

Myrtle Point Enterprise: Ed Abernethy has his portable saw mill, which he moved from this place to Fairview, set up and ready for operation. He will cut lumber to pluck the Coos Bay Wagon Road, and has also several large orders from farmers in that vicinity.

Roseburg Review: An apparently well defined rumor has been gaining circulation in Roseburg, the past few days, that John D. Spreckles, owner of the Marshfield-Myrtle Point Railroad, is seriously considering the matter of extending the road to a connection with the S. P. R. R. at Roseburg.

The Public: The author of the "Bonnie Briar Bush," the Rev. John Watson (Ida MacLaren), predicts the "greatest religious revival since the days when Rome succumbed to the teachings of Christ in the first century." He says the world is on the eve of it. But suppose this religious revival should come. Would it not come how as a time, in no halo of glory attracting the better classes, but only as a babe of poverty born in a manger, and a strange man preaching strange doctrines and consorting with the lower classes? Does the Rev. Mr. Watson suppose he will recognize the revival if it comes in that way? The priests of nineteen hundred years ago did not.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. Thousands can testify to that. Mrs. C. B. VanMetre of Shepherds town, W. Va., says: "I had a severe case of Bronchitis, and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It is infallible for Croup, Whooping Cough, Grip, Pneumonia and Consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist. Trial bottles free. Regular sizes 50c, $1.00.

Independent and reliable—The Oregonian.

Only Makes A Bad Matter Worse.

Perhaps you have never thought of it, but the fact must be apparent to every one that constipation is caused by a lack of water in the system, and the use of drastic cathartics like the old fashioned pills, only makes a bad matter worse. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are much more mild and gentle in their effect, and when the proper dose is taken their action is so natural that one can hardly realize it is the effect of a medicine. Try a 25 cent bottle of them. For sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist.

The Glory of American Achievement.

There is probably no accomplishment in modern industrial progress which so fully characterizes the capable energy of the Anglo-Saxon as railroad building. Less than eighty years ago the first mile of railroad in the world was laid, and today it is said to be a safe estimate that the aggregate railroads of the world now in operation is 500,000 miles, sufficient, assuming that it were possible to bridge the two great oceans, for forty trunk lines around the earth at its equatorial diameter. This is a marvellous statement, but to all practical purposes the truth.

The enormous development of human intelligence and energy that is represented in this accomplishment is so entirely the product of Anglo-Saxon genius that it justly stands as a race triumph, not to be matched in all the annals of history. It is impossible to calculate the civilizing forces that have been evolved in this stupendous modern consummation. It has numbered the Dark Continent with the civilized lands; it has peopled the desert with prosperous communities; by its magic great cities are springing into existence, and an empire of marvelous promise is being born in North-western Asia, where, for centuries, civilization has despaired of even getting a prospective foothold. Of all the wonderful tales of Arabian magic there is none that surpasses this of the modern world in railroad building.

To the American the pleasing fact in all this is that he can rightfully lay claim to the lion's share of the glory. Available statistics as to railroad mileage on the different continents are eloquent in proof of this assertion. Of the total mileage of the world, North America has 227,000 miles, while Europe, Asia and Africa combined have 248,000 miles. Of the 14,000 miles on the last named continent, it must be borne in mind that a good portion has been equipped with American material and American machinery. America has laid hold on the railroad extension idea with a vigor that was born of her necessity. She has set the pace in types of construction and equipment. The American railroad mind grasps all the possibilities that exist in this field of action, and with a broad intelligence capable of advancing its standard to the highest requirements, it now practically dominates and controls the greatest civilizing agent that the world has ever known.—Evening Telegram.

Yawcob and His Dog.

And Yawcob, observing his dog, Schmitzel, spake unto him as follows: "You was only a dog, but I wish I was you. Ven you go mit your bed in, you shut durn round dreë dimes and I haf to lock up der place and vind up der clock and pud der cat out and untress myself, and may fron vakes up and scholds, den der paby vakes up and cries, and I haf to walk him mit der horse around, den maybe ven I gets myself to bed, it is dime to get up vonce more again. Ven you gets up mit your bed you shut stretch yourself, dip your neck a leedle and you vas up. I haf to light der fire and put on der kettle, scrap some mit my vite alretty, and git myself breakfast. You play mit der day all round and haf plenty of fun. I haf to work mit der day round and haf plenty of drubble. Ven you die, you vas dead. Ven I die I haf to go to hell yet."—New York Sun.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE DEVIL.

Men don't believe in a devil now, as their fathers used to do; They've forced the door of the broadest creed to let his majesty through; There isn't a print of his cloven foot, or a fiery dart from his bow, To be found in earth or air to-day, for the world has voted so.

But who is mixing the fatal draught that pains heart and brain, And leads the earth of each passing year with ten hundred thousand slain? Who blights the bloom of the land to-day with the fiery breath of hell, If the devil isn't, and never was, I want somebody to rise and tell.

Who dogs the steps of the tolling saint, and digs the pits for his feet? Who sows the tares in the field of time, wherever God sows his wheat? The Devil is voted not to be, and of course the thing is true; But who is doing the kind of work the Devil alone should do?

We are told that he does not go about as a roaring lion now, But whom shall we hold responsible for the overcasting row To be heard in church and state, to the earth's remotest bound, If the Devil, by unanimous vote, is nowhere to be found?

Won't some body step to the front, forthwith, and make his bow, and show How the fronds and the crimes of the day spring up—for surely we want to know, The Devil was fairly voted out, and of course the Devil is gone; But simple people would like to know who carries his business on.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.

The next W. C. T. U. meeting takes place Tuesday, at 2.30, P. M., at the M. E. Church.

Bishop McCabe says: "The laboring people of this country spend more money for whisky and beer than the entire banking capital of the nation. In three years, by saving what they pour down their throats, they could have banks running in their interest with an aggregate capital of $3,250,000,000."

Against the oft-quoted statement that "The free lunch is the redeeming feature of the saloon," Mrs. Chauncey Depew says some most valuable and significant things. She says: "The free lunch is largely responsible for the enslavement of young men to drink. As sure as a man eats a free lunch, just so sure will he be a drinking man, unless he is possessed of rare self-control. A man takes a drink and a bite. The bite makes him thirsty and the drink makes him hungry; and many a man who would leave a saloon after having imbibed one drink, will stay all day as long as the free lunch is there. It isn't the drink that keeps him, but the ingenious make-up of the free lunch, and that's why I say it's a blotch on civilization and should be wiped out."

Drinking Among the Russian Peasantry. In the general moral progress of the peasantry, the Russian Drink Monopoly, which now embraces all European Russia, is a very important factor. The monopoly has decreased the number of drink-shops by about six-sevenths, but it has failed to decrease consumption, and has led to increased street-drinking, secret distilling, secret selling, and other abuses. In its immediate purpose it has hitherto failed. But one of the accompanying measures is likely to play a very beneficial part in Russian social development. That is the institution of boards of guardians of public sobriety. The function of these boards is to create counter attractions to drink; and each board has a branch and a district representative, so that there are now in Russia about 80,000 persons whose chief duty it is to fight the drink evil. The boards have established all over the country thousands of tea-houses, cheap dining rooms, temperance inns, and shelters for workmen; and they have built up or subsidized hundreds of "people's theatres" and lecture halls. In these halls—and sometimes in the open-air—lectures are given upon the evils of drink, upon hygiene, history, literature, and domestic economy. The boards also occupy themselves with the free distribution of pamphlets against drink, and in favor of wholesome living.—The Pilgrim.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. Arthur Chapman, writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough, and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking, it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist.

FOR SALE—100 acres of land; 130 acres creek bottom, covered with alder and salmon brush; 7 acres pine land and 12 acres in pasture; house and outbuildings; 16 miles South of Bandon, on Four-mile Creek; price $1,500. For particulars address P. S. Truman, 304 Shaver St., Portland, Or.

Mrs. Fred Unrath, President Country Club, Bandon Harbor, Mich.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow!
