The War of the Quah Ju-Ju

By Capt'n Jack

The scene is Mount Rushmore. The time is this morning. Our hero, Jack, has just arrived on this great adventure of his life. He is to explore the great mountain of rock that is the home of the Quah Ju-Ju. Jack is a brave and resourceful man, and he is not afraid of anything.

In the foreground, we see Jack standing on a ledge, looking out at the mountain. He is wearing his usual black suit and hat, and he is holding a large tourist map in his hand.

Jack: (looking at the map) This is a tough one. I've never been here before.

Clerk: (off stage) Well, Jack, just follow the tourist trail. It's all marked on the map.

Jack: (smiling) Thanks, Mr. Clerk.

In the background, we see the mountain rising up into the sky, with its many faces turned towards the heavens.

Jack: (looking up) This is a great place. I'm glad I came.

Clerk: (off stage) Yes, Jack. It's one of the greatest natural wonders of the world.

Jack: (smiling) I hope I can find the Quah Ju-Ju.

The end.
