Coast Mail: Victor Miller, of Beaver Hill, came to town last night. Under the care of Dr. Minges he has now so far recovered as to be nearly as good as new.

We received a few lines from J. H. Jones, dated October 8th, at Seattle. He and wife were on their way back to Portland, and had stopped there to see that place and the great battleship Nebraska which was launched there about that time. Mr. Jones sent the Recorder a clipping from a Seattle paper descriptive of the ship yards and battleship, but it is too lengthy for our publication.

Mr. Timon's Coal Outlook.

The following, written to the Herald by Prof. McKenna, of Marguette, Michigan, in regard to J. H. Timon's coal possession, near the mouth of Laupa Creek, is a matter of news and interest: Whatever may be said of the virtues of a contented spirit, of being satisfied in the lot in which providence has placed them, it is an undesirable fact that it is the restless and uncontented who serve to build up and advance the prosperity of a country. The man who leaves that which is absolutely known and goes beyond the extreme confines of recommended territory, discovers and opens up a new field for man's labor and enterprise to occupy, is surely a boon to humanity. I find just such a man located here at Laupa Creek, silently delving beneath mother earth for the last four years, opening up a coal field second to none on the coast. The coal is semi-bituminous, of very high grade. It cokes nicely, and compares with the coal of British Columbia, hence it will bring in the market of San Francisco, $2 per ton more than any of the lignites worked in this county.

Mr. Timon showed me through all his openings. He has eleven veins ranging in thickness from three to fourteen feet. The vein which he is now working is five and one-half feet, perfectly clean, with good roof and floor. It lays at an angle of 39 degrees, and ought to be a cheap vein to work. Mr. Timon claims that he can land coal in the bunker ready for shipment at a total cost of fifty-five cents per ton. He figures on an eight-hour day, which he says is long enough for any man to work, and the average wages of the county. I fully believe he can do it, as he has millions of tons that can be worked without the aid of machinery. While Mr. Timon owns a large coal field here, he used the precaution to secure the quay and river frontage to thousands of acres, which will enable him at all times to meet all competition.

H. A. Cox keeps wheat and shorts for sale.

We will sell our black Jersey milk cow, known as Sam Barrows' cow. Price $30 - SANDERSON BROS.

Mrs. William Gallier of this place visited her sons Edward and Stephen, at Coquille, last Friday, remaining over Sunday.

William A. Cox will take passage for San Francisco, on the Elizabeth, and will go to Phoenix, Arizona, in quest of better health.

P. F. Gobily, of Parkersburg, caught over 500 salmon last Saturday night. The catch netted him a little over $100. Other boats did well also.

A GRAND TIME AT COQUILLE CITY.

Saturday morning, Oct. 8th, the day of the W. O. W. grand Logrolling at Coquille, dawned with all the splendor of Southwestern Oregon's typical sunny autumn days. The steamer Dispatch, loaded with Woodmen and gala day people from Port Orford, Langlois, Bandon, and the lower river going to attend the W. O. W. Logrolling, landed at Coquille about 10:30, where they were met by the Marshfield Degree Team, Woodmen of various Camps, and a large number of the good people of Coquille, who received the lower river delegation with that good cheer and hospitality for which Coquille is especially noted. The Bandon Concert Band, Woodmen and people were escorted to the W. O. W. Hall, where the parade formed at 11 o'clock, the procession being in the following order: Band, Marshfield Uniformed Degree Team, State Organizer Dehonor and Dr. Colm in Automobile, Bandon Camp, Coquille and Myrtle Point Circles, Langlois, Port Orford and Coquille Camps, invited guests and people bringing up the rear. There was also a very appropriately arranged float mounted with a typewheel of yodellen time, which added materially to the procession. The beautiful and artistic manner in which the store fronts and windows were decorated, deserve special mention. At the order of Capt. Colm, of the Marshfield Degree Team, who was mounted on a handsome horse, and who acted as a pilot of the day, the procession started down the beautifully decorated streets of the City which were lined with people and where the usual assortment of cameras and flashes were strictly in evidence, as this array of splendor was tempting a model for the film of the lens to let escape.

Upon reaching the grounds a splendidly arranged program was approximately opened by an invocation from Rev. Handsaker, followed by a very clever and characteristic address of welcome by Judge H. H. H. who, on behalf of the absent Mayor, turned over the Key of the City Gates to the host of visitors in attendance, assuring them that with it he gave the good wishes of the citizens of Coquille, and that with it they were privileged to hopk anything from the hearts and hospitality of his fellow townsmen, down to the City Prison, and closed with the confident admonition that he was sure they would handle the key in such a way that there would be no occasion to use it for the latter purpose. Suffice to say, so many good things were in store for us, we had no occasion to consider the Judge's caution. The address of welcome showed a feeling of good fellowship.

Following the address of welcome came the reply by Judge Jensen of Port Orford, who, with a few well phrased and appropriate remarks stirred the hearts of the assembly to enthusiasm on Woodcraft.

The chairman then introduced Hon. Robert Burns as orator of the day, and this gentleman had been speaking about 20 minutes and acquitting himself in a very creditable manner, when, almost without warning, the rain began pouring vigorously from the clouds. Mr. Burns very cleverly dismissed his audience and everybody made for shelter.

Three heavy showers following in quick succession were the only things to mar the day's sport. Many were disappointed at not being able to hear the speech of Mr. Burns, and the splendid program consisting of elocutionary recitals, vocal and instrumental solos, quartets, etc., finished.

Following dinner, a goodly number of contests and out door sports helped greatly to make up for what had been missed on account of the rain, and as the day broke fair again, the entire occasion proved a grand success, and the people of Coquille deserve credit for their cleverness in entertaining.

A Grand Ball was given at night, for which a special Orchestra from Coos Bay furnished soul inspiring music.

The Woodmen and Ladies' Circle initiated an army of candidates and many more applications were taken. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, this occasion will be remembered by the Fraternity of Coos County as one of the leading events. May the W. O. W. ever prosper in their good work.

A MEMBER OF THE BAND.

Port Orford Tribune: Hon. Walter Sutton and son George, started for Ashland last Monday. Mr. Sutton will be accompanied home by his son, Johnny, whose health has not improved as much as desired since leaving here, and who will once more return to his old home in Curry. Mr. Sutton expects to be gone about a month.

Sea Lion vs. Octopus.

The keeper and assistants at North West Seal Rock Light Station, recently witnessed an unique sea fight, in which a sea lion and a monster devil fish were the combatants. The first intimation they had of the struggle was seeing the water near by violently agitated and churned into foam as though a submarine demon were venting his spleen upon some denizen of the mighty deep. Shortly afterwards they saw a large sea lion come to the surface in the deadly grip and embrace of the much dreaded octopus, whose long powerful tentacles encircled the entire body of the sea lion, thus apparently rendering futile all efforts on its part to escape. Finally, after repeatedly diving and trying in vain to free itself, the sea lion was seen to head back its massive long neck, open his cavernous mouth and seize one of the tentacles of his foe near its body, which member it snapped off and devoured with avidity. This operation was repeated until the octopus, bereft of its tentacles, had perforce to let go, whereupon the sea lion proceeded to feast upon the body until satiated, after which other sea lions, who had hitherto held aloof, although laboring under great excitement during the battle, fell upon the carcass and ate up the residue. The octopus was fully twelve feet in diameter, and would never have released his intended victim had not the sea lion acted as above stated, thus vanquishing a foe who is feared by all and beaten by few. - Crescent City News.

Coal Mining at Riverton.

D. S. Rouse, the manager of the Riverton Coal and Development Co., of Riverton, while here on last Monday, had quite an interview with the Record reporter.

During his talk Mr. Rouse informed us that the new coal mine was progressing nicely. The tunnel is in 175 feet and the bunkers and the tramway have been erected. The capacity of the bunkers is 600 tons.

Up to the present time nothing but development work has been engaged in. Some coal has been taken out and Mr. Rouse informs us that a ready market has been found for the entire output even when the mine is fully developed.

The coal is pronounced of excellent quality. The vein averages about 3 feet at present.

The mine is about 1/2 mile below Riverton, and is near the river, so that deep water is accessible.

Miners are being added constantly, and it will be but a short time until the Riverton Coal and Development Co. will be employing a large number of hands.

D. S. Rouse, the manager, is one of the best coal operators on the coast. He has had about forty-five years' experience in this business, and has been very successful. - Recall.
