Saved From Terrible Death.
The family of Mrs. M. L. Bobbitt of Bargeton, Tenn., saw her dying and were powerless to save her. The most skillful physicians and every remedy used, failed, while consumption was slowly but surely taking her life. In this terrible hour Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption turned despair into joy. The first bottle brought immediate relief and its continued use completely cured her. It's the most certain cure in the world for all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed. Bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at C. Y. Lowe's Drug Store.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Absolutely Harmless.
The fault of giving children medicine containing injurious substances, is sometimes more disastrous than the disease from which they are suffering. Every mother should know that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is perfectly safe for children to take. It contains nothing harmful, and for coughs, colds and croup is unsurpassed. For sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist.

STORIES OF OLD DAYS.

You never hear good stories now—
The dear old-fashioned kind—
These modern tales don't seem, somehow,
To satisfy the mind.
I wish someone would tell a few
Like those we loved of old;
The ones we used to think were true—
The stories mother told!
When I was just a little chap
As soon as it was night
I'd climb up into mother's lap
And she would hold me tight
And tell me of fairies, giants, and
Of warriors brave and bold.
Never have tales seemed half so grand
As those that mother told!
Tale after tale she'd tell—and then
When she would say she'd done,
I'd always make her start again,
And tell another one.
Until at last, all tired out,
My eyes would close her hold
On wakefulness, "I'd dream about
The tales that mother told!"
Then, by and by, there'd come a knock,
And she'd let father in,
And as she pointed at the clock
He'd give a sickly grin;
His business kept him late, he swore
And he'd explain and scold,
Till mother's tales looked pale before
The stories father told!

A man's house should be on the hill
Top of cheerfulness and serenity,
So high that no shadows rest upon it,
And where the morning comes so early
And the evening tarries so late,
That the day has twice as many golden hours as those of other men. He is to be pitied whose house is in some valley of grief between the hills, with the longest night and the shortest day.
Home should be the center of joy and orations of memory, singing to all our after life melodies and harmonies of old remembered joy.

TELL YOUR WIFE.

Oh, what a great mistake those business men make who never tell their business troubles to their wives! There comes some great loss to their store, or some of their customers in business play them a sad trick, and they carry the burden all alone. He is asked in the household again and again, "What is the matter?" but he believes it a sort of Christian duty to keep all that trouble within his own soul. Oh, sir, your first duty was to tell your wife all about it. She, perhaps, might not have disintegrated your finances or extended your credit, but she would have helped you to bear misfortune. You have no right to carry on one shoulder that which is intended for two. There came a crisis in your affairs. You struggled bravely and long, but after a while there came a day when you said: "Here I shall have to stop," and you called in your partners, and you called in the most prominent men in your employ, and you said: "We have got to stop." You left the store suddenly. You could hardly make up your mind to pass through the street and over on the ferry-boat. You felt that everybody would be looking at you, and blaming you, and denouncing you. You hastened home. You told your wife all about the affair. What did she say? Did she play the butterfly? Did she talk about the silks, the ribbons, and the fashions? No. She came up to the emergency. She quailed not under the stroke. She helped you to begin to plan right away. She offered to go out of the comfortable house into a smaller one, and wear the old cloak another winter. She was one who understood your affairs without blaming you. You looked upon what you thought was a thin, weak woman's arm holding you up; but while you looked at that arm there came into the feeble muscles of it the strength of the eternal God. No chiding. No fretting. No telling you about the beautiful house of her father, from which you brought her, ten, twenty, or thirty years ago. You said: "Well, it is the happiest day of my life. I am glad I have got from under my burden. My wife doesn't care, I don't care."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy The Best Made.
"In my opinion Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best made for colds," says Mrs. Cora Walker of Porterville, California. There is no doubt about its being the best. No other will cure a cold so quickly. No other is so sure a preventive of pneumonia. No other is so pleasant and safe to take. These are good reasons why it should be preferred to any other. The fact is that few people are satisfied with any other after having once used this remedy. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Cured His Mother of Rheumatism.
"My mother has been a sufferer for many years from rheumatism," says W. H. Howard of Hubbard, Pennsylvania. "At times she was unable to move at all, while at all times walking was painful. I presented her with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after a few applications she decided it was the most wonderful pain reliever she had ever tried. In fact, she is never without it now and is at all times able to walk. An occasional application of Pain Balm keeps away the pain that she was formerly troubled with. For sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist."

Port Orford Tribune: Capt. G. Goble of Gold Beach, left, via Coos Bay, for Washington, D. C., for surgical treatment for a wound that he received in the Civil War, and also to ask for a raise in his pension to which he is entitled by reason of a gun shot wound through the upper part of the right arm, and which has never properly healed. Capt. Goble enlisted in Co. G, 4th Reg. Iowa Vol., was wounded at Pea Ridge, and was promoted to a Captain. He will no doubt receive a pension of fifty dollars a month, as he is incapable of physical labor.

It is exceptional to find a family where there are no domestic ruptures occasionally, but these can be lessened by having Dr. King's New Life Pills around. Much trouble they save by their great work in Stomach and Liver troubles. They not only relieve you, but cure. 25 cents at C. Y. Lowe's Drug Store.

City Charter vs. Local Option Law.

Jacksonville, Or., Jan. 5.—Central Point, Jackson county, is now as "dry" as was decreed by the voters of the precinct in the November election. The Board of Trustees of the town, at its December meeting, gave Geo. B. Ross a regulation saloon license despite the local option vote of the previous month, requiring from Ross a bond that he would sell no liquor on Sunday and would meet other requirements. There was considerable curiosity as to whether the Board's license or the precinct vote should prevail.
The point has been settled by a complaint that Ross has failed to meet the Board's requirements. In consequence, he has forfeited his bond has been tendered a pro rata amount of the license money paid in, and has lost his license.

Medford is another town in which a curious situation has arisen as a result of the local option vote. A South Medford resident has just made complaint to County Judge Dunn that the saloons in that precinct were open and doing business on last Sunday. All the liquor houses of the town, with one exception, are in that precinct which went "dry." The City Council, however, claimed power under its charter to regulate the saloon business, and grant licenses. The respective merits of charter authority or local option vote will have to be determined in circuit court.

Saloons Defy the Law.

Hood River, Or., Jan. 2.—Recorder Nickelsen received notification yesterday from the Wasco County Court that intoxicating liquors shall not be sold in the five Hood River precincts on and after January 4, this subdivision of Wasco County having been carried for prohibition at the November election.
The four saloonkeepers of this city, it is understood, do not intend to close their place of business, notwithstanding the order of the County Court. After conferences with the Brewers' and Liquor Dealers' Association, of Portland, the saloon men find that local police officers will have no jurisdiction in enforcing the local option law. Action to force their closing must be taken by the District Attorney and Sheriff of the county. The Hood River saloon men propose to dispense liquors, and if arrested to appear and pay a fine.
