Some Comparisons.

Rev. Elliott in Coos Bay Harbor. "Speech is silver and silence is gold." Silence is usually the better policy, yet it does seem that a word should be spoken about your editorial, "Church Consolidation," in the issue of last week. It is good evidence that there is a spirit of harmony and sympathy and co-operation among the christian ministers when a bright editor visiting the various churches and worshipping with them finds "they worship the same God" and he cannot detect a difference in their faith, not even between Protestant and Romanist. How could they do better if they were one denomination. You declare there are too many preachers, that there should be but one, and he gifted and "eloquent." Speaking is not all, nor the half of a true minister's work. His influence is in a good life, and the nervous strain comes from suffering with the afflicted, and sharing in all the trials that are in the way of those seeking to walk with God like Enoch. One minister alone, too, is weak and lonesome. Our Lord knew this and sent his disciples out by twos. Settlements in the slums of cities have often a dozen or more missionaries. The mission stations in heathen lands seldom have less than three. The Rev. Frank Gonsauls, whom you wish to secure for North Bend, would have one of his nervous collapses within a week if left alone in the conditions here prevailing. If there was but one denomination the number of ministers should not be less. But you think the support of three ministers is an unbearable burden to a population of only twelve hundred, one minister to every four hundred. You do not consider what a prosperous and rich town we have, what luxuries we enjoy, and what amusements we can afford. We have six resorts for drink, not to mention another kind. It must take at least four persons to run each of these six resorts in two shifts, day and night. This requires twenty-four men, one in fifty of our twelve hundred population. Yet we have never a word a hint in your paper that they were a burden to the community. For sport, this town is able to sustain a ball team of professional players at a cost of eight hundred dollars a month. Their whole occupation is to entertain the people on Sundays. They are supported by liberal subscriptions by the citizens, and a tribe of four bits to then sit on the grand stand and see them play. You have never mentioned this as any burden to the community. You have complained of the schedule because a few Sundays during the summer are without League games on the Bay. The burden of supporting three ministers of simple habits is a mere feather to such a community as this. But the churches built and the ministers in service are not burdens on this community. The churches have been built largely with capital from outside, one of the buildings nearly wholly. These have added to the value of all the property of the town. The real estate men are accustomed to mention the number of churches with pride, while there is not a circular sent out from this town which mentions the number of drinking resorts and the Sunday ball games as adding value. The three ministers, missionaries, are mostly supported from outside. The denominations treat this just as any heathen field. They begin without any local support and wait for the work to be appreciated. The contributions to the support is yet small in the churches here. Each minister spends two or three times as much money in this community as he receives from it. Checks come in from Chicago and from Dayton and from New York for their salaries, and they are here cashed and spent for sustenance. This was true of the brother you named and of the others. Few men walk these streets who bring in so constant a stream of wealth. The church work cannot be reckoned in cash. It is more than wealth. These ministers are not leeches sucking the blood of this community. Behind them and supporting them is a noble constituency of consecrated wealth, of culture, and of unselfish christian character. These ministers are the almoners of their benevolence and they hope thus to serve the race by here protecting the weak and the tempted, and promoting true manhood and pure womanhood. Woolen Mills Assured.

Assurances are given that the new Woolen Mills at Sellwood are to be built and put in operation in the near future. T. W. Clark, who has been promoting the enterprise, says that fully $200,000 of the stock has been subscribed, and that the grounds have been bought from the Portland Woolen Mills Company, whose buildings burned down two years ago.—Telegram. Annual School Meeting. The annual school meeting took place last Monday afternoon, but on account of the absence of the clerk, whose report was necessary, the meeting adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock, P. M., Monday, July 3, 1905, after electing W. E. Disher to serve as School Director for the ensuing three years, and D. M. Charleson to serve as Clerk for the current year. John Blacklock Dead. Another of our citizens has passed over the divide which separates the living from the dead. This time the death shaft was hurled at one who has filled his measure of three score years and ten, and John Blacklock, who, for many years, has been a well-known personage in Southern Coos and Northern Curry, answered the call and passed on. Mr. Blacklock's death was not unexpected as he has been in a critical condition for some weeks, while prior to his taking to his bed his infirm condition was very noticeable. Death occurred about 8 o'clock, Sunday morning, and on Monday the remains were conveyed to Port Orford, where the funeral took place at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. We have been unable to get a biographical sketch of deceased, but so far as we are informed he leaves one son, three daughters and an aged wife to mourn their bereavement, he having been married a second time, his first wife having died a good many years ago. Obituary. From the Brownsville Times. Mrs. Lucie Robinson, nee Lamson, was born in Delaware County, Ohio, April 25, 1819. Her father, John Lamson, died when she was 12 years old. In the spring of 1840, with her mother and one brother, she removed to Missouri. She was married to Samuel L. Robinson, Sept. 1st, 1840. To this happy union were born eight children—two daughters and six sons. Her husband, one daughter and one son preceded her to the spirit world. One daughter, five sons, thirty four grand children, eleven great grandchildren, and a great host of relatives and friends are left to mourn the death of "Grand ma Robinson," as she was familiarly and lovingly called. On June 6, 1905, at 10 p.m., this devout Christian quietly and peacefully fell asleep in Jesus, being 86 years, 1 month and 11 days old. Sister Robinson professed faith in Christ in her girlhood. She ever lived up to her profession. She talked, lived and enjoyed her religion. In rearing a large family she was devoted, and taught her children the principles of the doctrine of Christ. Thirteen years ago she joined the M. E. Church, South, at Fish Trap Coos County, Oregon, and has remained a faithful member of that church ever since. She will be buried in the family grave yard at Fish Trap beside her husband and two oldest children. She was a faithful, obedient wife, a loving and patient mother, and a true friend. We miss thee from our home, dear mother. We miss thee from our place. A shadow o'er our life is cast, We miss the sunshine of thy face. We miss thy kind and willing hand, Thy fond and earnest care, Our home is dark without thee, We miss thee everywhere. Funeral services at M. E. Church, South, in Brownsville, Ore., Sunday, June 11, 1905, by the pastor, Rev. E. B. Jones. (Ed.) Deceased was interred at Fish-trap, Monday, June 12. Huge Task. It was a huge task to undertake the care of such a bad case of kidney disease as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Iowa, but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair without a cushion, and suffered from dreadful backache, headache, and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by their use was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist. Price 50 cents.

Saloon Keepers Fined.

The enforcement of the Local Option Law has begun at Coquille City, the Law and Order League having started an active campaign against saloon keepers who are violating the law by keeping their saloons open. On Wednesday of last week, Aus. Garten, proprietor of the Lone Star saloon, was arrested and arraigned in Justice Cecil's court, where he pleaded guilty and was fined $50, agreeing not to reopen his saloon. On Thursday, Charles Baxter was arrested. He fought the case, was found guilty and fined $200 and costs. He appealed the case to the Circuit Court. On Friday, Geo. Baxter and B. F. Tupper were arrested, tried, found guilty and fined $200 each. On Saturday Tupper was arrested a second time, but a sweeping order from the District Attorney has put a stop to all prosecutions for the present. Marshfield Beaten. The ball game, at Marshfield, last Sunday, seems to have been remarkable for runs, but it does not seem to have created any enthusiasm, as our baseball reporters have failed to write it up. The contest between Coquille and North Bend was more interesting as the runs were only 4 on the part of Coquille, while North Bend failed to get a man over the home plate.
