EDITORIAL.
 Russia claims that she has snuk a billion dollars in her war with Japan, but her claim is incorrect, it was Admiral Togo that did the sinking.
 The Ohio penitentiary is becoming a noted resort for bankers. Twelve are now doing service there and nine more are booked for accommodation. However the service is not voluntary.
 Haste often results in waste and it is sometimes very dangerous to get in to great a hurry. Senator Mitchell is having a world of trouble over expediting claims for government land.

"I government ownership that the people of Russia, are trying to get away from," says the Portland Telegram. Perhaps the Telegram does not outrage truth in making that statement, but it does some huge twisting in order to make a point in favor of the present tottering, competitive system. In Russia the government owns about everything, except the nobility and the nobility owns the government and enslave its citizens, themselves excepted. If that constitutes government ownership then there are few persons who would favor it. Most persons would designate that a monopoly although it is not as desirable an one as Rockefeller operates. Still, if monopoly ever becomes as onerous in this country, as it has in Russia, there would be revolution. The liberty loving American would not submit to it. However government ownership implies that all citizens own the government and have equal property rights and such ownership and rights are not granted to citizens of Russia.

Bicycle Craze Again.

There is a revival of the bicycle craze in England. All the bicycle factories are working overtime to keep up with orders.
 It's a happy revival of a sensible craze. Would that it might extend to our own country.
 A good strong revival of the bicycle craze would revolutionize the lives of millions of people. It would put oxygen into their lungs, color in their cheeks, and new life in their whole bodies.
 It would take hundreds of thousands of young men from the city streets on Sundays out into the fresh air of the green country. It would take hundreds of thousands of young women from the narrow confines of homes and from the silly rounds of social gayeries out where the world is big and bright and beautiful.
 A bicycle craze would make millions of city people acquainted with the pregnant fact that their own back is not the whole world, and that beyond their streets are other streets and lanes and fields and groves, and that beyond their little social set is a boundless domain of happy human kind.
 It is impossible to estimate the good the bicycle once did for the people of our cities. Many a man and woman owe their fine health today to the fact that they once were victims of the "craze." The lives of many were made fuller of sunshine by it. Not only the lungs, but the hearts of unnumbered men and women were opened to inhalations that were fresher, cleaner and purer.
 A revival of the craze would bring these inestimable blessings to millions now growing into manhood and womanhood. It would give broader views, better health and brighter spirits to the men and women of the future.
 Get a wheel and peddle out into the green country. It may not start a craze, but it will stir up your blood and spirit.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.
 Child Not Expected to Live from One Hour to Another, but Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.
 Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, of Agnewville, Va., was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another," he says. "I happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle, she was well." This remedy is for sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist.

What the Lassies think.

The following were written by two twelve-year old school girls, of Portland, and can be seen at the Lewis and Clark Exposition:
THE HARM THAT SALOONS DO.
 "Saloons are the ruin of many families. So many a wife and children are ragged, and I have not food to eat, and have to work hard in order not to starve. Men leave their wives and children home working, while they are having a good time as they call it, in a saloon. It does not do them any good, for when they have drunk a long time, some of them go crazy, others go to jail, and some die by drinking.
 "The saloon robs men and takes bread from their wives and children. If the poor mother is sick, she has no money to pay the doctor. Who has the money? The saloon has it. Then she and the children go to the poor farm or county hospital on account of a saloon.
 "There are more tramps or hobos, murders, robbers and starvation, all because there are saloons. A man would not be apt to kill another man unless he was drunk. The man who killed McKinley was a saloon-keeper. I do not know whether he was drunk or not, but I suppose he was that kind of a man, or he would not have done what he did."
MEN AND BOYS IN THE SALOONS.
 "I am going to tell you about the saloons. There are murders, gambling, drinking and stealing in them. There are strings after strings of saloons in Portland, where many men and boys go and drink and gamble, and their dear mothers do not know where they are. Night after night thousands of boys come home drunk. The men say that they cannot enjoy their homes, so they have to go to the low down saloons. But their mothers have to enjoy their homes. They make them stay home and work, and they go off to the saloons and drink."
 These, to be sure, are but the simple utterances of children, and so may not have much weight with the men who write wise editorials for our daily papers; but of these little ones the Master said: "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."
 L. H. AMOS.

A Surprise Party.

A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and care for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25c at Lowe's Drug Store.

Centennial Notes.

The attendance at the Lewis and Clark Exposition on June 24, G. A. R. Day, was 15,673. There were about 3000 veterans present, and appropriate exercises were held.
 Last Saturday, Seattle Day, was one of the biggest days at the Lewis and Clark Fair. The northern metropolis sent several hundred citizens to attend the exercises.
 For the purpose of stimulating night attendance at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, the management has devised a coupon arrangement which will enable the purchaser of a fifty-cent admission ticket to take in twenty-five cent's worth of shows on the Trail free of charge.

The Diamond Cure.

The latest news from Paris, is, that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. I. McGee, of Vanhook, Tenn. "I had a cough for fourteen years. Nothing helped me until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief and effected a permanent cure." Unequaled quick cure for Throat and Lung Troubles. At Lowe's Drug Store. Price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

THE BABY.

Where did you come from, baby dear? Out of the everywhere into here.
 Where did you get your eyes so blue? Out of the sky as I came through.
 Where did you get that little tear? I found it waiting when I got here.
 What makes your forehead so smooth and high? A soft hand stroked it as I went by.
 What makes your cheek like a warm white rose? I saw something better than anyone knows.
 Whence that three-cornered smile of bliss? Three angels gave me at once a kiss.
 Where did you get this pearly ear? God spoke, and it came out to hear.
 Where did you get those arms and hands? Love made itself into hooks and bands.
 Feet, whence did you come, you darling things? From the same box as the cherub's wings.
 How did they all come to be yours? God thought about me, and so I grew.
 But how did you come to us, you dear? God thought about you, and so I am here.

No heathen god or goddess has ever had more zealous devotees than fashion, or a more absurd and humiliating ritual, or more mortifying and cruel penance. Her laws, like those of the Medes and Persians, must be implicitly obeyed, but, unlike them, change, as certainly as the moon. They are rarely founded in reason, usually violate common sense, sometimes common decency, and uniformly common comfort.

All the strength of the world and all of its beauty, all true joy, everything that consoles, that feeds hope or throws a ray of light along our dark paths, everything that makes us see across our poor lives a splendid gold and boundless future, comes to us from people of simplicity, those who have made another object of their desire than the passing satisfaction of selfishness and vanity, and have understood that the art of living is to know how to give one's life. Parents mold the characters of their children, or leave the molding to others—this comforts or pesters them are made for our own homes and the world.

Home is where the heart is. A place our feet may leave, but not our hearts. Home is where peace, joy, comfort and happiness reign. Where father whistles merrily, where mother sings cheerily, where children are happy, jolly and gay; where the family gathers around the evening lamp, busy with books, the needle, the papers and the playthings, and bask in the sunshine of each other's love.
 "Home is not merely four square walls, of wood, and brick, and spacious halls."
 We would be glad to see all children grow to useful manhood and womanhood. They should be trained along the lines of industry. In short, the home ought to be a sort of school for manual training, that through this useful occupation, the real work of the child's mind might be readily perceived. Not all work, however, of play, but enough of both to make work and pleasure alike enjoyable and refreshing. Thus the child might be trained in useful ways, and be equipped for the physical labor now almost impossible by the unusual strain put on the child inclined to staid habits.

The woman who looks forward to the time when the beginning of household cares will give her some mental development, should begin the lightning-up process at once. There is always a best way to do things. The benefit who gave us a wife an easy lesson in saving, once on the dish-washing by putting the china and the fragments of the feast all into hot water together, may not have struck the best way. But the dishes came out of the scumming, clean and unbroken, who could dispute his assertion that it was better than spending an hour in scraping the plates? Figuratively speaking, there is a great deal of time wasted in scraping the plates—in magnifying trifles in getting ready to do something. The real business of the day is crowded through in some way, but there are so many other things that are given undue prominence that by the time the day is over the poor householder is a bundle of nerves and weariness. But it isn't always so. The years that have opened nearly every avenue in the business world to women, have taught many of them to apply business methods in the management of a home. Good rules of action get the answer wherever they are applied. If concentration is a necessity in an office, it is equally important in the home, for where it is properly applied, it enables one to accomplish the best results with the least labor.
