

THE RECORDER
 IS PUBLISHED
 EVERY THURSDAY AFTERNOON
 BY
DAVID E. STITT,
 EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
 SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
 One Year.....$2.00
 Six Months.....1.00
 Three Months......50
 This paper is entered at the Bandon post office as Second-class Matter.
THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1906.
 EDITORIAL.

Coos County has hitherto attracted but small notice from the metropolis of the State, but in the erection of a building and the maintenance of a county exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, she has compelled attention which she could not otherwise have commanded. Portland papers are giving Coos County an advertisement that will be far reaching in its effect, but the actual display at the Exposition will reach much further.

Good for Stomach Trouble and Constipation.
 "Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have done me a great deal of good," says C. Towns, of Rat Portage, Ontario, Canada. "Being a middle-aged man, the after effects are not unpleasant, and I can recommend them to all who suffer from stomach disorder. For sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist."

Snap of Country Merchant.
 "Yes," remarked the country merchant to the newspaper reporter, "I certainly have a snap. The wholesale houses send me duns every month and draw on me at sight; but if I send a bill to a farmer he comes in swearing mad and quits trading at my store. While I am hard up for ready money, those who owe me are sending cash in advance to mail order houses. If I don't contribute money to every cause people say I am a hog. Every day I am expected to dig up for everything that comes along, from a raffle ticket to a church fund, by people who say I ought to do this because they do part of their trading here; but my friend, Montgomery Ward, neither buys raffle tickets nor helps the church fund, and yet get the cash in advance business; and if I were to circulate a subscription paper among the city wholesale houses where no trade, I could get the horse laugh proper. If I sell a pair of pants I must treat the family to candy and cigars; if I buy a load of potatoes I must do the same. Customers who are able to pay long on to their money, while I pay ten per cent at the bank to get ready cash. During hard times and poor crops I have a big business from people who are willing to trade with me, providing I can duplicate catalogue prices and wait until after harvest for my money. My scales weigh too heavy when I sell sugar, and too light when I buy butter. I am a thief, a liar, and a grafter. If I smile I am a soft-soapy hypocrite; if I don't I am a snop. Yes, this is certainly a snap." And then he looked over $10,000 worth of book accounts, all good, and wondered how he could raise $250 to pay a sight draft due tomorrow—Gaston, South Dakota Herald.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.
 The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He most spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars on lay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist.

A Valuable Book.
 One of the most valuable books that has been offered to the public lately is
The American Family Educator.
 This book is a fund of knowledge that will interest the whole household, and should be the companion of all persons in their leisure moments. If its advice is sought and followed it will prove a source of profit as well as pleasure.
 Sold only by J. J. EDWARDS, AGT.
 For Sale.—Corner lot with small house and outbuildings; lot 15x24 feet; situated on Iris Street near Broomfield Factory. Price $300. Enquire at this office. Also three lots in Cartwright Addition.
WANTED.
MEN AND WOMEN in this and adjoining counties for home or traveling work, representing and advertising the Wholesale and Educational Departments of an established Manufacturing House. Salary $250 per day with expenses advanced. Big furnished when necessary; position permanent; references exchanged. Address: How Brothers & Co., Home Dept., Chicago, Ill.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found. It may be a mansion or a hotel, a country home or a city flat. In such a place it is impossible to be unhappy. That country is the greatest which has the largest number of homes, in which the greatest number possess in their own right the place they live in. No country was ever great which supported a thousand mansions at the expense of a million hovels. Home seekers, own your own home.
A Surprise Party.
 A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25cts at Lowe's Drug Store.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.
 Child Not Expected to Live from One Hour to Another, but Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.
 Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, of Agnewville, Va., was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another," he says. "I happened to think of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and got a bottle of it from the store. In five hours I saw a change for the better. We kept on giving it and before she had taken the half of one small bottle, she was well." This remedy is for sale by C. Y. Lowe, Druggist.

Important News Notes
 TUESDAY, JULY 18.
 A hot wave extended over the entire East causing many deaths and a very large number of prostrations.
 Six persons were burned to death in a fire that destroyed a hotel at Wabasha, Minn.
 1000 people from Everett, Wash., leave today for Portland.
 Advice from Kushinoff, Alaska, state that two buildings were destroyed by fire at that place, and 8000 cases of salmon were burned.
 WEDNESDAY, JULY 19.
 Five mines were blown to pieces near Des Moines, Iowa. They sought shelter in a powder house and lightning exploded the dynamite.
 Two score of deaths occur from heat at New York, while 400 prostrations are reported.
 The Coos County building at the Lewis and Clark Exposition was dedicated today.
 The Russian army is reported to be in better shape now for fighting than at any time since the war began.
 THURSDAY, JULY 20.
 The jury in the Gesner, Briggs and Williamson land fraud case disagreed, standing ten to two for conviction.
 Komura, the Japanese peace envoy, arrived at Seattle yesterday evening.
 Ruth Brulley, a ten-year old girl was gored to death by a bull near Livingstone, Mont.
 Dr. Mary Latham, of Spokane, Wash., was fined $1000 and sentenced to four years in the penitentiary for running a drugstore.
 FRIDAY, JULY 21.
 An explosion of boilers on board the gunboat Bennington, at San Diego, killed fifty-five persons and sent as many more to the hospitals.
 Daniel Norman Williams, forger, bigamist and murderer, was hanged at Wasco for the murder of Anna Nesbitt and her aged mother.
 Jurors have been selected for the second trial of J. N. Williamson and his partners in land fraud charges.
 M. T. Hancock, the reckless automobile driver, and a millionaire, was killed at Los Angeles in an auto smash-up. His 17-year old son was driving the auto at 40 miles an hour when the accident occurred.
 SATURDAY, JULY 22.
 Carlo Lonardi was shot and killed by Luigi Ferraris at Portland. The murderer claims self-defense.
 The retrial of J. N. Williamson and his partners began this morning. Attorney Honey is confident of convicting the trio.
 The squadron arrived at New York with the remains of Admiral Paul Jones.
 An attempt to assassinate the Sultan of Turkey, yesterday, by a bomb, resulted in the death of 24 persons and the wounding of 67 others. The Sultan escaped.
The Diamond Cure.
 The latest news from Paris, is that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. T. McGee, of Vanleer, Tenn. "I had a cough for fourteen years. Nothing helped me until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief and effected a permanent cure." Unspurred quick cure for Throat and Lung Troubles. At Lowe's Drug Store. Price 50cts and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found. It may be a mansion or a hotel, a country home or a city flat. In such a place it is impossible to be unhappy. That country is the greatest which has the largest number of homes, in which the greatest number possess in their own right the place they live in. No country was ever great which supported a thousand mansions at the expense of a million hovels. Home seekers, own your own home.
A Surprise Party.
 A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25cts at Lowe's Drug Store.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found. It may be a mansion or a hotel, a country home or a city flat. In such a place it is impossible to be unhappy. That country is the greatest which has the largest number of homes, in which the greatest number possess in their own right the place they live in. No country was ever great which supported a thousand mansions at the expense of a million hovels. Home seekers, own your own home.
A Surprise Party.
 A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25cts at Lowe's Drug Store.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found. It may be a mansion or a hotel, a country home or a city flat. In such a place it is impossible to be unhappy. That country is the greatest which has the largest number of homes, in which the greatest number possess in their own right the place they live in. No country was ever great which supported a thousand mansions at the expense of a million hovels. Home seekers, own your own home.
A Surprise Party.
 A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25cts at Lowe's Drug Store.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found. It may be a mansion or a hotel, a country home or a city flat. In such a place it is impossible to be unhappy. That country is the greatest which has the largest number of homes, in which the greatest number possess in their own right the place they live in. No country was ever great which supported a thousand mansions at the expense of a million hovels. Home seekers, own your own home.
A Surprise Party.
 A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25cts at Lowe's Drug Store.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found. It may be a mansion or a hotel, a country home or a city flat. In such a place it is impossible to be unhappy. That country is the greatest which has the largest number of homes, in which the greatest number possess in their own right the place they live in. No country was ever great which supported a thousand mansions at the expense of a million hovels. Home seekers, own your own home.
A Surprise Party.
 A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25cts at Lowe's Drug Store.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found. It may be a mansion or a hotel, a country home or a city flat. In such a place it is impossible to be unhappy. That country is the greatest which has the largest number of homes, in which the greatest number possess in their own right the place they live in. No country was ever great which supported a thousand mansions at the expense of a million hovels. Home seekers, own your own home.
A Surprise Party.
 A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25cts at Lowe's Drug Store.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found. It may be a mansion or a hotel, a country home or a city flat. In such a place it is impossible to be unhappy. That country is the greatest which has the largest number of homes, in which the greatest number possess in their own right the place they live in. No country was ever great which supported a thousand mansions at the expense of a million hovels. Home seekers, own your own home.
A Surprise Party.
 A pleasant surprise party may be given to your stomach and liver, by taking a medicine which will relieve their pain and discomfort, viz: Dr. King's New Life Pills. They are a most wonderful remedy, affording sure relief and cure for headache, dizziness and constipation. 25cts at Lowe's Drug Store.

Home Circle Column
 Crude Thoughts As They Fall From The Editorial Pen. Pleasant Evening Reviews. A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join The Home Circle at Evening Tide.
 The real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of existence, everything goes to the wind, but the happiness we have had at home.
 In hours of exuberance and exhilaration or joyous merriment; in reflective moments when the soul is swept with memories, pleasing or plaintive; in the silence of religious meditations; or in our little recesses from the homely duties and commonplace labors of the day or week, they befriend us with their delightful solace, these thoughts of home and a happy family circle.
 Scolding is mostly a habit. It is often the result of nervousness and an irritable condition of the mind and body. A person is tired or annoyed at some trivial cause, and forthwith commences finding fault with everything and everybody within reach. Scolding is a habit very easily formed. It is astonishing how soon one becomes addicted to it and confirmed in it. It is unreasonable and an unreasonable habit. Persons who once get into the way of scolding always find something to scold about. If there is nothing else, they begin scolding at the mere absence of anything to scold at. It is an extremely disagreeable habit. It is contagious. Once introduced into a family, it is pretty certain, in a short time, to effect all the members.
THE REAL HOME.
 Home is not a place simply to hang your hat in. Neither is it true that home must be a stately mansion, furnished with luxurious hangings, where the inmates are waited upon by a retinue of servants in gorgeous livery. Home can be a mansion or a hall bed room, but the real home is where love is, and love may be a family; father, mother, children, never simply bare or richly furnished walls. Home is where peace is, where you are contented and at rest with the world.
 Those who appreciate home the most are those who have to struggle to possess it. Where do our patriots spring from? Those who have home are those who love country, and will fight and die if necessary to maintain such havens of rest. The boy or girl who has wandered from the farm to the city will find no home like the rural farm house, with weather beaten outside, but with cozy, free, and quiet interiors. The walls may be bare of "masterpieces" from the brush of masters, but the portraits of the family, the framed and unframed mementoes of art of various kinds, make a greater value in their minds than would the most pretentious pictures of modern times. The carpet may be a little shabby, but softer, and brighter than the brightest Wilton or Brussels which decorate the rooms of a flat or mansion.
 The home they dream of shows another busy at her work; father, mother and children, reading or resting in the old-fashioned chair in the corner, after a hard day's work in the field, and the children (themselves) busy with their lessons or with their evening chores. All may be tired, but there is an atmosphere of contentment there which will live as long as life, whose taste is as sweet as the purest honey. That is the home they expect to build for themselves.
 The chief attraction in a home is a good woman. To own it is his wife. To cherish it is a mother. Weary and worn with strife, the husband seeks home for consolation. The minute the door opens, care is banished from his brow, and life takes on a brighter hue. No matter how hard the struggle, hope enters with him here, and like the white dove of peace nestles in his bosom. What a rare combination of virtue must wife and mother possess! How loving, how tender, how resourceful she must be! Home is where mother is.
 "All grief, and doubt, and anxiety,
 Flow where mother is;
 Hope, and faith, and sweet relief,
 Come where mother is."
 And so we say home is where love is, where peace is found