A little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Anyone who makes it a rule to keep Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand knows this to be a fact. For sale by C. Y. Lowe.

Lost—Somewhere on or close to First, or Atwater streets, Sunday, Aug. 13, Mrs. T. Anderson lost a round brooch pin with large amethyst set. Finder will be suitably rewarded on return of same.

A. H. Seal, of San Francisco, was in town Tuesday being on a visit to Edward Fahy's family. Mr. Seal was here some five years ago when his father was interested in black sand mining on Randolph beach.

John McVay, of Smith River, California was in town Friday on his way to visit friends on the Coquille River. Mrs. McVay came up a week or so before her husband on a visit to her mother, Mrs. William Howell.

Tribune: A letter from a physician at the Asylum has very encouraging news of John Crewe and that his recovery is almost certain. Mr. Crewe Sr. is recovering rapidly from his wound under the skillful treatment of Dr. Green, at port Orford.

Mrs. Anna Lorenzen of Dairyville has sold her hotel business at that place to J. Sorenson, and has moved to Bandon. The team conveying the last load Tuesday became frightened and ran away, scattering household articles along the way and smashing things up generally.

Dale Barrows arrived home yesterday afternoon from Wedderburn where he has been employed in fishing since last April. Frank Holman and Ray Gibson arrived in the evening and Lawrence Stitt, Earnest Bank, Charles Swift and Harvey Morse will get home this afternoon.

D. S. Rouse, of Riverton was in town Tuesday. Mr. Rouse is superintendent of the Riverton coal mine and we understand that the steamer Newport will, on her next trip, take a sample of the Riverton coal to Portland. The Newport purposes in carrying coal to Portland, some of which will be taken from the Coquille and some from Coos Bay.

The residence of James Crowley, who lives near the head waters of Four Mile, was burned Tuesday night. Nothing was saved. The fire is supposed to have caught from the flue.

Telegram: President Roosevelt says it is impossible longer to show leniency to certain beef packers indicted in Chicago. And again the people of the United States agree with the President.

C. Timmons has had an addition built on to the North end of his cannery, for the better adaptation to his business. He is expected to arrive in a few days to get ready for the fishing season.

According to the Coos Bay Harbor the North Bend woolen mills started up last Friday for a trial test, the object being the purchase of the plant by Eastern parties providing the test proves satisfactory.

Mrs. O. Benedict who has been a resident of Bandon for some two or three years, left yesterday with her children to join her husband in Washington state where Mr. Benedict went some time ago.

The passenger list North on the Newport yesterday was as follows: Warren Bullard, Chester Bullard, C. R. Adams, David R. Rice, Mrs. A. J. Bliss and four children, Mrs. O. Benedict and four children.

Virgil Fisher and family, and Miss Blanche Patterson are getting ready to start for San Diego, California. They will start about the 4th of September, and will go by wagon, proceeding by the coast road.

Last month and the present one has brought a considerable number of emigrants to the beach, but the number so far is much smaller than usual. The Lewis and Clark Exposition is the probable cause.

Tribune: Curry County is the poorest County in Oregon because of its isolation, and we have never expected conditions to change until the railway should have come. With more timber than any other county in the state, and her mountains full of minerals, there will be a marvelous change in a few years. The railroad is a rising sun to a new day for Curry County.

Prof. Louis M. Worrel, of Kelso, Wash., has been engaged as Principal of the Bandon school, and is expected to move here immediately and make this place his home. Miss Pearl Walker will take the primary rooms, Miss Bertha Wilkins will be installed in the intermediate department, and Miss Annie Waldvogel will take the third room. The assistant teacher has not yet been engaged. School is expected to open on Sept. 18.

Box. — At Randolph, August 9, 1905, to Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hayter, a son.

Rev. George A. Roach is to arrive here this week to take charge of the Presbyterian Church at this place. He will preach his initial sermon next Sunday.

The Newport arrived in from the North Tuesday, bringing about twenty tons of miscellaneous freight, including a considerable stock of millinery consigned to parties at Coquille and Myrtle Point.

Salmon are making their appearance in the river very early this season. Eugene Robinson, who is preparing the seining grounds and making ready to fish, caught 150 silver-sides last Monday.

Shingles in the Air.

We visited the old woolen mills building yesterday and found Ed Fish upon the roof with a spade shoveling off shingles and we learned that some new roofing will be put upon the east wing and that other changes are being made.

We were not there long till we saw E. A. Phillipot out prospecting for bedrock, in front of the main building and as Mr. Fish sized up the length of the pile of shingles and the wharf around the place we surmised that there was going to be some new wharf or driveway constructed, and as Mr. Phillipot has been rustling and planning for a shingle mill for some time we concluded that there are shingles in the wind.

Reunion Closed

The reunion of the Latter Day Saints, closed last Sunday night and the visiting members left for their homes on Monday morning well pleased with their visit and the spiritual strength gained.

The visiting members numbered two from Coquille, two from Lew, six from Looking Glass, two from Roseburg, two from Canas Valley, six from Reamote, nine from Myrtle Point, N. C. Edge, of Swartsville, Missouri, and N. V. Sells, D. W. C. Lowe, and E. Kessler, of Myrtle Point.

There were two addresses. A. E. Hunt and Anna Eucker. Several other persons are seriously contemplating a move in that direction.

Elder Sueddon and Elder Kessler continued preaching, removing the service to the Recorder hall where he will preach each evening this week and twice on Sunday.

Something Ahead.

The following article is from the Drain Nonpareil, and although it is given for the town of Drain, the place from which the railroad into Coos county is to start, yet it is applicable to each town that is situated upon the proposed road or that will be influenced by it:

The long looked for announcement that the railroad is to be built from Drain to the coast has already had the effect of stiffening real estate prices. This is naturally to be expected, but the mistake of making prices too high, should not be made. This is Drain's opportunity to grow, but it can not and will not grow if excessive prices are placed on all real estate. We should encourage people to come here and make their homes. Actual home-seekers and not speculators are the people we need. Furthermore, don't be silly enough to give an option on your property unless you get at least 25 per cent of its value when the deal is made. If you have property to sell, sell it reasonable, and try to sell to some one who has some interest in the town. It's up to the people of Drain whether they make a thriving little city or a dead one. Get in and help push.

Feet in Disappearance.

BANDON, - OREGON.

More About Coos.

As quoted by the Salem correspondent of the Oregonian, Governor Chamberlain, on his return to Salem, said, in part:

"The coast country of southwestern Oregon is a region of marvelous resources and of latent wealth so vast as to amaze the visitor on his first trip to that part of the state.

"The construction of a railroad from Coos Bay to the main line of the Southern Pacific will remove the chief obstacle to the development of that country, by furnishing adequate transportation facilities. The people of Coos and Curry counties now feel assured that the road will be built and they are rejoicing that the hopes they have so long entertained will end in fruition.

"Coos Bay is the best harbor between the Columbia river and the Golden Gate, which fact probably has much to do with the decision of the Harriman interests to build to that point on the coast. The harbor already accommodates a large domestic and foreign commerce in lumber, and improvement of the channel by deepening will make it a port of entry for the largest seagoing vessels. Coos Bay has business to offer for any vessel that can now or may hereafter be able to enter the harbor. There is also a good harbor at Bandon where vessels enter during the summer season without the help of a tug.

"All along the many streams flowing into Coos Bay farmers have established themselves in comfortable homes and are making good incomes from the sale of milk, cream, butter and cheese. The magnitude of the dairy industry of that section may be imagined when I tell you that over 100 gasoline launches are engaged in the business of gathering the dairy products and supplying the needs of farmers along the water courses.

"In going from Bandon to Coquille, a distance of 40 miles, our boat stopped 35 times to take on board the freight left on the little private docks of the ranchers. I never saw a more prosperous looking people nor a more prosperous looking country than the dairy region around Coos Bay. Many of the farmers' own launches for the transportation of their products. The occupation in which they are engaged is one that yields a cash return every month, and apparently they all have money.

"I do not look for a very large increase in the farming population of Coos and Curry counties as a result of the building of the railroad. The farming land is already under cultivation, and the ranches are not too large. By going back some distance, new agricultural lands may be found, but the development in that direction I think will be comparatively slow.

"It is in manufacturing that I look for most rapid progress, for the magnificent forests of the west slope of the Coast Range Mountains in Coos and Curry counties are unsurpassed. The building of new sawmills, new furniture factories, and the establishment of similar enterprises will furnish employment for large numbers of people, and I expect to see many new towns started and the older towns greatly increased in population.

"While there will be growth in agricultural industries, it will not be so marked as the development of manufacturing.

"Among the people of the places I visited I noticed that warm hospitality which is always characteristic of an isolated community. The business men always close their doors when a stranger of prominence comes, and all the people turn out to welcome him.

"There is unanimity and the best of feeling on such occasions, and the heartiness with which all join in the festivities, makes the stranger feel at home immediately. I enjoyed my trip to Coos and Curry counties, and learned much concerning a region of which I had heretofore known but little."

Coast Mail: L. J. Simpson, of North Bend, who has been acting as manager of the Simpson Lumber Co., has received promotion to a more important position in the company's service, which will require a portion of his time to be spent in San Francisco. The managership here will be filled by M. C. Criswell, who has been on the job for about two weeks.

Coos Bay Harbor: News comes from Portland that the Glasgow coal mines including over a mile of water front and three thousand acres of land situated on the bay just opposite North Bend, have been sold. It is understood that the Southern Pacific company is the purchaser and that the price was about three hundred thousand dollars.
